Opium Ring Is Broken

Wide Cooperation Brings Arrests

Rome, April 5 (AP)—A multi-million dollar smuggling ring whose opium and morphine was intended for U. S. addicts has been smashed.

Lebanese customs officers, cooperating with the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics and police of Syria, Turkey, Italy, France and Egypt, are officially reported here to have:

1. Seized 500 pounds of opium.
2. Confiscated 43 pounds of morphine base.

3. MADE SIX important arrests and obtained confessions tracing another 1,089 pounds of opium and 24 pounds of morphine base which slipped into Europe bound for America.

4. Broken up what a veteran police officer described as one of the four great dope smuggling rings in the Middle East.

5. Identified a Lebanese as king of the ring. He is still at large but a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

6. Cracked the smuggler's "secret weapon"—a racy British Jaguar sports car so sleek and expensive that European customs agents usually waved it past in the belief it contained wealthy tourists. The automobile was honeycombed with secret compartments for dope.

THE DOPE involved would have been worth nearly two million dollars to American peddlers.

A separate branch of the same ring smuggled Hashish to Egypt in small coastal vessels.

Capt. Edmond Azzizeh, head of the Beirut customs brigade, and Moussa Moubarak, head of the Lebanese customs, are credited with breaking the case. The investigation began last September and only now is winding up.

Among those who assisted in various phases was Charles Siragusa, U. S. Bureau of Narcotics district supervisor for Europe and the Middle East. He heads a crack team of American agents whose job is to keep illegal dope out of the United States by nabbing it at the source.

THE INVESTIGATION traced the source of the opium to Turkey. From there it went to Beirut, headquarters of the gang, or to Aleppo. Then it was smuggled to France, reprocessed and was to be slipped across the Atlantic into the United States.

Undercover agents of several nations trailed the first suspects until police had photographs and fingerprints of the gang's members both in Beirut and France.

Then the crackdown began. More arrests are expected.

Killed Her Husband at Ellenville

Panel of 20 Jurors Told to Report

April term of County Court opened Monday afternoon at the court house with Judge John M. Cashin presiding.

The case of Anna Bechtold, 58, indicted for first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of her husband, was put down for trial on April 18 after James J. Abernethy, one of her attorneys, informed the court that N. LeVan Haver, the other defense counsel, was on vacation and would return on that date.

MRS. BECHTOLD was charged by grand jury indictment with the slaying of her husband, William Bechtold, 48, Nevele Country Club chef, on Sept. 14, 1954. Bechtold was shot in the stomach with a blast from a shotgun as he walked in the front door of his bungalow on the Old Tow Path road near the country club.

The case is one of 43 cases on the criminal calendar for the April term of court.

UNABLE TO ORGANIZE because of insufficient members following the granting of excuses, the grand jury was dismissed until Wednesday morning. An additional panel of seven grand jurors was drawn to report at the same time, when organization will take place.

A panel of 20 additional trial jurors was also drawn to report Wednesday at 10 a. m. Trial jurors already chosen and not excused were sworn Monday morning and excused until Wednesday morning. Court was to convene this morning for transaction of business not requiring a jury.

Senators Ask Cutback Delay

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Democratic senators suggested today that the administration delay planned cutbacks in the marine corps and army ground forces until tension lessens in the Formosa area.

Sens. Stennis (D.-Miss.) and Robertson (D.-Va.) expressed this view at a public hearing by a Senate appropriations subcommittee on the 35-billion-dollar defense money bill for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

SECRETARY of the Navy Thomas was in the witness chair. He had told the senators the $8,918,000,000 proposed for the navy and marine corps will provide "a force which can withstand the initial onslaught (of an enemy) and strike back with weight and precision."

"We are keeping a very strong military posture to defend the country," Thomas said.

Stennis noted the marine corps plans a cutback of 19,000 officers and men, reducing its force to about 193,000.

Stennis told Thomas that conditions in Formosa Strait "are not getting better."

"That's correct," Thomas said.

"If we should go into action on Quemoy and Matsu we could expect no help from our Asiatic or European allies," Stennis continued.

THOMAS SAID this was true but repeated several times that the planned cutbacks would "not affect the basic striking power" of the marines or the navy.

The planned reduction in navy personnel will take its strength down to 657,000 on June 30, 1956, as compared with the high of 820,000 after the Korean war broke out.

"But these are the front line," Stennis pressed. "They are ready to go into action immediately. Why are you reducing the mobile forces of the army and marine corps?

"WHY DON'T YOU delay this planned reduction until things clear up?" Stennis persisted.

Thomas said he and Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, marine commander, could answer these questions later behind closed doors at an executive session.

Sen. Robertson, agreeing with Stennis, said that "Japan depends upon us to defend them" and that the tension appears to be increasing around Formosa just at the time the forces are being reduced.

"What would it cost to hold these marines until the Formosa matter clears up?" Robertson asked.

Thomas promised an answer later at the closed door session.

Committee sentiment, as evidence in questions, has been leaning toward raising the de-

Up to Reds, Dulles Says Of Formosa

Discusses Issues In Far East Area

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today that if there is war in the Formosa area it will be entirely due to Chinese Communist provocation and initiative.

He said the United States is trying to deal with Communist China on a civilized and peaceful basis.

Dulles discussed what he called the dangerous Far Eastern situation at a news conference. He said the United States would of course like to have allied countries brought into a single Far Eastern security system—which would mean broader support in the defense of Formosa.

But he indicated this is a general policy objective rather than a specific diplomatic purpose under negotiation.

MEANTIME Dulles said today it is unlikely any formal meeting of western foreign ministers with Russia could be arranged as early as June.

He told a news conference there might be an informal exchange of views by western Big Three foreign ministers prior to an Atlantic Pact Council meeting in May. This meeting, he said, might discuss a possible agenda for a later conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov.

He was asked whether it might be possible to arrange a "formal" Big Four foreign ministers meeting some time in June when United Nations countries gather at San Francisco to review the UN charter.

HE REPLIED he thought it would be unlikely that it would be possible to get ready that

Testimony Is Woman Was Dazed

Poughkeepsie, April 5 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Bernice Yankouski 29, on trial on a charge of killing her husband, Victor, 28, testified today that she was in a daze on the day of her husband's death and did not recall what she was doing.

Her testimony was given during a legal battle between the prosecution and defense counsel over the admission in evidence of a statement Mrs. Yankouski purportedly made admitting the killing last Dec. 30.

..EARLIER, Deputy Sheriff Albert Traver had testified that Mrs. Yankouski calmly and without show of emotion had reenacted the crime for him on the day her husband died.

Mrs. Yankouski testified today that she was merely trying to do what police officers wanted her to do. She is on trial before Acting County Judge W. Vincent Grady on a charge of second-degree murder.

Youth Is Fined For Theatre Row

A 19-year-old youth who was arrested Friday night at the Community Theatre charged with disorderly conduct in the creation of a disturbance was sentenced to $25 or 10 days in the county jail by Judge Raymond J. Mino in city court this morning.

The youth, Jimmy Samuel Rogers, of 73 Abruyn street, paid the fine.

Rogers pleaded guilty to the complaint filed by Michael Dorso, manager of local Walter Reade Theatres.

DORSO TOLD THE COURT that Rogers and three other youths, sitting in the orchestra section of the theatre, had made a lot of noise and he had sent the usher down to caution them. This failing, he said, he had gone down himself and warned the youths that he would be forced to expel them from the theatre if the noise continued. He was then told, in effect, he said, and in rather strong language, to mind his own business.

Dorso went out to get a policeman on duty in the vicinity of the theatre but when he returned the boys had disappeared, he said.

ABOUT AN HOUR LATER one of the ushers reported someone creating a disturbance in the loge of the theatre and Dorso said he found it was Rogers sitting with several girls, one of whom he was ostentatiously kissing, causing considerable offense to the audience seated in that section of the theatre.

He said he asked Rogers several times to come with him but was ignored and that he finally took the youth by the shoulder and was leading him from the theatre when Rogers took a swing at him, broke loose and escaped down a fire escape.

Rogers was picked up a short time later at Broadway and Cedar street by Officers Sheldon O'Rourke, George Dohnken and Anthony Turck.

IN SENTENCING Rogers, Judge Mino pointed out that the Community Theatre has had considerable trouble, in the past with similar disturbances and that he could not, under the circumstances and in view of the

The well was discovered on uranium claims owned by Standard Mining Co. of Salt Lake City and being drilled by Boyles Drilling Co.

Firemen Dispatched Twice

City firemen answered two calls yesterday and today—one for a space heater out of adjustment and the other for a grass fire. Central Station received a box alarm call at 6:20 p. m. to a second floor apartment at 83 East Strand occupied by Mrs. Joseph Winters. An oil fire caused by an space heater out of adjustment was extinguished with soda and acid. Answering the call to the building, owned by A. Buck, were Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central, Engine 2 from Cornell, Cordt's Hose and Union Hose. Firemen were called again at 11:25 a. m. today to a grass fire at West Chester street and Mary's avenue. Engine 1 from Central was dispatched.

New Computer Announced By IBM for Business Use

International Business Machines Corporation today announced in New York a commercially available transistorized computer with several times the calculating speed and storage capacity of the experimental model the company demonstrated at the opening of its new Poughkepesie laboratory several months ago. Deliveries will begin early in 1956.

The new machine is the first completely transistorized computer available for commercial installation, the IBM announcement states, and marks the mastery of production techniques for the large-scale manufacture of computing and data processing equipment combining transistors, printed circuitry and other forms of miniaturization. According to the company, the use of these devices makes possible the fast, efficient assembly of modular components that can be used as "building blocks" in future machines.

The machine, called the 608, inaugurates the transition of IBM's line of small and intermediate electronic calculators from vacuum tube to transistor operation. It operates on transistors — tiny germanium devices no bigger than a paper clip—without the use of a single vacuum tube. Magnetic cores—minute, doughnut-shaped objects that can "remember" information indefinitely, and recall it in a few millionths of a second—make up the machine's internal storage or "memory." This is the first known use of transistors and cores together in a computer.

Of the new development, W. W. McDowell, IBM vice-president in charge of research and engineering, said: "The transis-

MAY REPLACE CHURCHILL—British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden arrives at the Foreign Office in London Monday. Churchill Quits Post

London, April 5 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, flashing his famous V-for-victory sign, drove to Buckingham Palace today and resigned the prime ministry.

Shouts of "Good old Winnie" sped the 80-year-old statesman from Downing Street to an audience with Queen Elizabeth II, and back to the home of British prime ministers. Britain's leader in peace and war, he had served nearly nine years as prime minister.

Sir Anthony Eden, 57-year-old foreign secretary in Churchill's government, is to be the new prime minister. An announcement to that effect was expected later tonight or tomorrow.

Geneva Williams Is Indicted

Towson, Md., April 5 (AP)—A 20-year-old woman who gave birth unattended to a baby on a railroad train was charged with murder yesterday in an indictment returned by the Baltimore county grand jury.

State's Atty. John E. Raine Jr., said Miss Geneva Williams, of Rocky Mount, N. C., would be arraigned tomorrow before Judge John B. Gontrum. She was held without bail in the Baltimore county jail.

THE WILLIAMS WOMAN, Raine said, gave birth to the infant in the ladies' room of a Pennsylvania railroad passenger coach somewhere between Washington and Baltimore "on or about March 12." At the time, she was en route from Rocky Mount to Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The child was asphyxiated, Raine said. Clothing had been stuffed in its mouth.

RAINE SAID the "timing of the killing" placed it somewhere

Council May Get New Plan At Meeting

It was reported today that Mayor Frederick H. Stang will submit another proposal relative to the controversial reclamation project in the Kingston Point section of the Fifth Ward at the regular monthly meeting of Common Council at 7:30 p. m. today at city hall.

It was further reported that the plan contemplates the appointment of a committee to investigate and report on the sewer situation and that in all probability no vote would be taken on any matters relative to the proposed project tonight.

MAYOR STANG indicated today, in reply to inquiries by The Freeman, that he hoped Samuel Perry, Fifth Ward alderman, would be appointed a member of the committee. The mayor explained he felt Perry should serve as a member of the committee because the proposed sewer project was wholly within his ward and that it would provide Perry with an opportunity to become thoroughly conversant with the new project.

AT A THIRD recessed meeting Wednesday, March 30, the Fifth Ward proposal died in committee. Mayor Stang indicated at that time that he might bid for reconsideration at the meeting tonight.

Extended argument on the plan March 30 ended when Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms (R), chairman of the finance committee, announced that the "finance committee does not feel it can report on the Fifth Ward proposition in its present form as submitted by the Board of Public Works." This came after a recess of more than two hours.

10th Makes Quota

Adrian Kaplan, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, 1955 campaign for funds and membership, announced today that the second of the city wards to top its quota was the 10th Ward of which Jess Lanzafame and Mrs. Lucy Freer are co-chairmen. The quota this year for Ulster county and the city is $40,000. The city's quota is $17,700.

The regular meeting of Wiltwyck Hose Co. No. 1 has been postponed to Wednesday evening, April 13, at the rooms on Fair street.

Williams Seems To Be Winner

Detroit, April 5 (AP)—Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams' Loyal Legions in Wayne (Detroit) county appeared today to have given him almost complete control of Michigan's state government.

Returns from 3,608 of the state's 4,783 precincts in yesterday's election showed the Democratic state ticket leading by more than 30,000 votes.

THIS INCLUDED 1,820 of Wayne county's 1,956 precincts. There still were more than 1,000 precincts missing in normally Republican territory, but the bulk of them appeared to be in scattered rural areas lacking sufficient votes to overcome the Detroit outpouring in behalf of the Democrats.

Thus, Gov. Williams seemed well on his way to crippling the political power of the Michigan Republican party in 6½ years. Last fall he won the state's first consecutive fourth term as a governor and captured the bulk of administrative offices.

YESTERDAY' ELECTION carried as the prize the office of state superintendent of public instruction, long a Republican sinecure. Democratic possession of this post would leave only one Republican administrative official, the state highway commissioner.

In addition, the election appeared to have squeezed two members of the all-Republican Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, raised Democratic strength on the board governing Michigan State College from one to three, knocked off one member of the State Board of Education and rammed a rebel Republican onto the state Supreme Court bench.

APPARENTLY THE ONLY Republican to withstand the Democratic sweep was Chief Justice Leland W. Carr of Lansing.

Circuit Judge Eugene F. Black of Port Huron, a former Republican attorney general who bolted his party, had a 13,000 vote

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—A young Republican alderman who quit the Democratic party to run for mayor on the GOP ticket seeks to break the powerful 24-year Democratic control of Chicago in today's mayoral election.

He is Robert E. (Bob) Merriam, 36, an alderman for eight years from the University of Chicago's South Side District Merriam turned to the Republicans for support last fall after fighting Democratic organization rebuffs of his reform efforts as a councilman.

Merriam, who has waged a dynamic fight and said he was confident of winning, has said that "election of my opponent would be a signal to the organized criminals that Chicago is a wide open city."

His Democratic opponent is Richard J. Daley, who has been active in politics for 22 of his 52 years. He has served in city, county and state offices. At present he is Cook county clerk

Central Station received a box alarm call at 6:20 p. m. to a second floor apartment at 83 East Strand occupied by Mrs. Joseph Winters. An oil fire caused by an space heater out of adjustment was extinguished with soda and acid. Answering the call to the building, owned by A. Buck, were Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central, Engine 2 from Cornell, Cordt's Hose and Union Hose. Firemen were called again at 11:25 a. m. today to a grass fire at West Chester street and Mary's avenue. Engine 1 from Central was dispatched.

MAY REPLACE CHURCHILL—British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden arrives at the Foreign Office in London Monday. It is reported unofficially that he will succeed Sir Winston Churchill as Prime Minister. Churchill was scheduled to entertain Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh at dinner the evening of April 4. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London).

Churchill Quits Post

London, April 5 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, flashing his famous V-for-victory sign, drove to Buckingham Palace today and resigned the prime ministry.

Shouts of "Good old Winnie" sped the 80-year-old statesman from Downing Street to an audience with Queen Elizabeth II, and back to the home of British prime ministers. Britain's leader in peace and war, he had served nearly nine years as prime minister.

Sir Anthony Eden, 57-year-old foreign secretary in Churchill's government, is to be the new prime minister. An announcement to that effect was expected later tonight or tomorrow.

Geneva Williams Is Indicted

Towson, Md., April 5 (AP)—A 20-year-old woman who gave birth unattended to a baby on a railroad train was charged with murder yesterday in an indictment returned by the Baltimore county grand jury.

State's Atty. John E. Raine Jr., said Miss Geneva Williams, of Rocky Mount, N. C., would be arraigned tomorrow before Judge John B. Gontrum. She was held without bail in the Baltimore county jail.

THE WILLIAMS WOMAN, Raine said, gave birth to the infant in the ladies' room of a Pennsylvania railroad passenger coach somewhere between Washington and Baltimore "on or about March 12." At the time, she was en route from Rocky Mount to Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The child was asphyxiated, Raine said. Clothing had been stuffed in its mouth.

RAINE SAID the "timing of the killing" placed it somewhere

Council May Get New Plan At Meeting

It was reported today that Mayor Frederick H. Stang will submit another proposal relative to the controversial reclamation project in the Kingston Point section of the Fifth Ward at the regular monthly meeting of Common Council at 7:30 p. m. today at city hall.

It was further reported that the plan contemplates the appointment of a committee to investigate and report on the sewer situation and that in all probability no vote would be taken on any matters relative to the proposed project tonight.

MAYOR STANG indicated today, in reply to inquiries by The Freeman, that he hoped Samuel Perry, Fifth Ward alderman, would be appointed a member of the committee. The mayor explained he felt Perry should serve as a member of the committee because the proposed sewer project was wholly within his ward and that it would provide Perry with an opportunity to become thoroughly conversant with the new project.

AT A THIRD recessed meeting Wednesday, March 30, the Fifth Ward proposal died in committee. Mayor Stang indicated at that time that he might bid for reconsideration at the meeting tonight.

Extended argument on the plan March 30 ended when Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms (R), chairman of the finance committee, announced that the "finance committee does not feel it can report on the Fifth Ward proposition in its present form as submitted by the Board of Public Works." This came after a recess of more than two hours.

The quota this year for Ulster county and the city is $40,000. The city's quota is $17,700.

Wiltwycks Postponement

The regular meeting of Wiltwyck Hose Co. No. 1 has been postponed to Wednesday evening, April 13, at the rooms on Fair street.

Williams Seems To Be Winner

Detroit, April 5 (AP)—Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams' Loyal Legions in Wayne (Detroit) county appeared today to have given him almost complete control of Michigan's state government.

Returns from 3,608 of the state's 4,783 precincts in yesterday's election showed the Democratic state ticket leading by more than 30,000 votes.

THIS INCLUDED 1,820 of Wayne county's 1,956 precincts. There still were more than 1,000 precincts missing in normally Republican territory, but the bulk of them appeared to be in scattered rural areas lacking sufficient votes to overcome the Detroit outpouring in behalf of the Democrats.

Thus, Gov. Williams seemed well on his way to crippling the political power of the Michigan Republican party in 6½ years. Last fall he won the state's first consecutive fourth term as a governor and captured the bulk of administrative offices.

YESTERDAY' ELECTION carried as the prize the office of state superintendent of public instruction, long a Republican sinecure. Democratic possession of this post would leave only one Republican administrative official, the state highway commissioner.

In addition, the election appeared to have squeezed two members of the all-Republican Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, raised Democratic strength on the board governing Michigan State College from one to three, knocked off one member of the State Board of Education and rammed a rebel Republican onto the state Supreme Court bench.

APPARENTLY THE ONLY Republican to withstand the Democratic sweep was Chief Justice Leland W. Carr of Lansing.

Circuit Judge Eugene F. Black of Port Huron, a former Republican attorney general who bolted his party, had a 13,000 vote

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—A young Republican alderman who quit the Democratic party to run for mayor on the GOP ticket seeks to break the powerful 24-year Democratic control of Chicago in today's mayoral election.

He is Robert E. (Bob) Merriam, 36, an alderman for eight years from the University of Chicago's South Side District Merriam turned to the Republicans for support last fall after fighting Democratic organization rebuffs of his reform efforts as a councilman.

Merriam, who has waged a dynamic fight and said he was confident of winning, has said that "election of my opponent would be a signal to the organized criminals that Chicago is a wide open city."

His Democratic opponent is Richard J. Daley, who has been active in politics for 22 of his 52 years. He has served in city, county and state offices. At present he is Cook county clerk

At a meeting of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association held last evening at the court house the matter of parking came up for discussion as well as the proposition of better lighting at the free parking lot off North Front street. The matter is to be given further study and a report made at a special meeting to be called soon.

The date for the annual dinner meeting was announced. The dinner will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Wednesday, April 20, at 6:30 o'clock.

A report of the nominating committee will be made at a meeting to be called shortly when officers and directors for the ensuing year will be named.

Eden Is Experienced For Expected Duties

(By The Associated Press.)

Sir Anthony Eden, in line for the prime ministry of Great Britain in succession to Sir Winston Churchill, will bring to that difficult job the experience of serving as foreign secretary through three critical periods of history. He is 57.

Throughout his career Eden has pursued a policy of close association with the United States —and of peace through strength.

AT 41 EDEN WALKED out of the job as foreign secretary Feb. 20, 1938 in protest against Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of appeasing Hitler.

The gesture moved the more experienced Churchill, who had been shouting warnings against Hitler's rise to power from a back bench in the House of Commons. He adopted Eden as his political protege with this stirring tribute—"he seemed to me at this moment to embody the life-hope of the British nation."

The Churchill-Eden prophecies proved too true to a nation slow to heed their warnings.

BRITAIN TURNED to them in grave peril and together—Churchill as prime minister and Eden once again as foreign secretary—they led the empire to victory alongside its allies in World War II.

The team has remained—with Eden at the age of 57 inheriting the mantle of his 80-year-old mentor.

The story of that fateful 1938 night the Churchill-Eden partnership was born was told by "the old man" 10 years later in his war memoirs:

". . . Late in the night of Feb. 20 a telephone message reached me as I sat in my old room at Chartwell (as I often sit now) that Eden had resigned.

"I MUST CONFESS that my heart sank, and for a while the dark waters of despair overwhelmed me. . . . On this night of Feb. 20, 1938, and on this occasion only, sleep deserted me. From midnight 'till dawn I lay in my bed consumed by emotions of sorrow and fear.

"There seemed one strong figure standing up against long, dismal drawling tides of drift and surrender, of wrong measures and feeble impulses . . . he seemed to me at this moment to embody the life-hope of the British nation.

"I watched the daylight slowly creep in through the windows, and saw before me in mental gaze the vision of death."

Gunman Takes $3,295 In Cafeteria Holdup

New York, April 5 (AP) — A gunman, his face partially covered with a white handkerchief, escaped with $3,295 from the Garden Cafeteria, 165 East Broadway, today after threatening the manager.

The manager, Burt Feinberg, of 34-40 79th Street, Jackson Heights, Queens, said he withdrew the money this morning from the Public National Bank and Trust Company, 175 East Broadway, for use in the day's business.

The gunman confronted Feinberg with a gun and demanded the money when he returned to his office.

Purge of Farm Bosses Lagging, Soviet Admits

London, April 5 (AP)—The Soviet government admitted today that its purge of collective farm bosses has bogged down.

"The work of strengthening collective farms with executive personnel is making unsatisfactory progress," said Pravda in a dispatch that radio Moscow broadcast to the Soviet press.

THE BROADCAST, monitored here, revealed that the Central Committee of the Communist party decided in January to clean out the collective farm managers and set July as the date when the purge should be finished.

Today's broadcast also revealed 30,000 jobs were at stake.

The campaign to weed out inefficient and corrupt managers of collective farms was aired last week by Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party chief, in a speech to farms and party workers in the Voronezh area.

HE SAID "tens of thousands" of particularly qualified workers in the party and other organizations were being sought to take over direction of lagging collective farms.

In reporting the bogging down of the purge, Moscow radio said:

"It must be noted that heading a number of collective farms there are still unsatisfactory officials who do not come up to the standard required by the present exacting demands.

"This more than anything else explains the continuing lagging behind of some collective farms."

THE BROADCAST also disclosed that a companion purge of bosses of the country's far-flung machine tractor stations affected 120,000 persons and that it has been completed.

"Much work has been done to strengthen the machine tractor stations with qualified personnel—directors, chief engineers and workshop superintendents," the broadcast said.

IBM Leases Storage Property

It was announced today by Gavin A. Cullen, general manager of the Kingston IBM plant, that the company had leased the Genco property on the East Chester by-pass for storage purposes. The lease became effective as of April 1.

The property, formerally operated by Joseph Genco, owner, as a gas station and repair shop, consists of the gas station and a large concrete block building containing 6,000 square feet of floor space. Genco said the entire property had been leased to IBM and he was closing his gas station. He said he had no immediate plans.

The building, one story in height, has a 16-foot headway and two large 14-by-14 foot entrance doors capable to taking in large trucks.

Chavez Gives View

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Sen. Chavez (D.-N.M.) said today he doesn't know what congressional critics of army manpower cuts can do if the Eisenhower administration is determined to go through with them. "We can't force them to spend the money, even if we give it to them," Chavez said. He heads an appropriations subcommittee which yesterday opened hearings on the administration's request for about 35 billion dollars in the bookkeeping year starting July 1. Chavez said in an interview he thinks a majority of the 15-man subcommittee agrees with him the cuts projected in the size of the army are unwise. But he conceded there is little the senators can do about it.

Briefs Are Submitted

New York, April 5 (AP)—Briefs were submitted to the Appellate Division in Brooklyn yesterday in the appeal of Edwin Codarre, convicted in 1942 on a second degree murder charge. There were no oral arguments by attorneys on the appeal, based on an alleged trial error. It was expected that the court's ruling would be returned in about three weeks.

Churchill Quits

queen. Wearing top hat, polka dot tie and a shining gold watch chain, he went to the palace by limousine accompanied only by his son-in-law and private secretary, Christopher Soames.

Eden stayed behind. A lone figure was seen peering from the window of his suite in the foreign office as Churchill left Downing street on his momentous ride.

Soon after Churchill returned to Downing street at 5:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m., EST) Buckingham Palace issued this formal announcement:

"The Right Honorable Sir Winston Churchill had an audience of the Queen this evening and tendered his resignation as Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to accept."

MORE THAN 2,000 persons pressed into old Downing street as the Prime Minister left for the palace at 4:22 p. m.

Churchill was playing out his last role in the Prime Ministry he loved. A gray day had brightened into pale sunshine.

He posed for a full minute in the doorway of the historic home of Prime Ministers, so that photographers could record the scene.

The shouts and excitement seemed to catch some Britons by surprise. London newspapers were strike-bound and firm news of Churchill's impending retirement had come over the British Broadcasting Corp. only today.

Churchill served almost nine years as Britain's Prime Minister. He had two terms.

He was at the helm from May 10, 1940, to July 26, 1945, a period of five years, 2 months, 16 days. That covered all but eight months of World War 2.

He resumed the office Oct. 26, 1951, and had held it until his resignation today. That's 3 years, 5 months and 10 days.

Geneva Williams

in Baltimore county, which the railroad transverses north and south for a distance of about 24 miles. The county, which virtually surrounds Baltimore city, is a separate government entity.

Miss Williams was returned here from Poughkeepsie last Thursday by county detectives.

Miss Williams was arrested at the home of her mother in Poughkeepsie following intensive investigation by police of that city after the body of her baby was discovered in an unused ice locker at the New York Central Railroad station.

POUGHKEEPSIE POLICE Chief John L. Martin said the body had been concealed in the locker on or about March 13, but was not discovered until March 22. The arrest was made Friday, March 25, and Miss Williams was booked at Poughkeepsie on a misdemeanor charge—concealing the birth of a baby—pending conferences between Dutchess county District Attorney Raymond Barrata and State's Attorney Raine of Maryland.

lead over Carr's running mate, former Republican State Treasurer D. Hale Brake of Stanton.

Two judges were chosen. Each party nominated two candidates although the ballot was nonpartisan.

Last November the Democrats made inroads on the Republicans' traditionally heavy majority in the Legislature. But the Republicans still have a 58-51 seat advantage in the House and a 23-10 margin in the Senate.

Gov. Williams, often mentioned as a presidential candidate in 1956, was regarded as seeking national stature by his attempts to reverse a traditionally Republican state.

His coalition of Democrats and labor unionists reacted strongly, apparently, to Republican attempts in this election to depict the CIO Political Action Committee as seeking to gain control of the courts and the educational system.

Says Britain Ready

London, April 5 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons last night Britain is ready to underwrite any reasonable peace agreement worked out between Israel and the Arab nations. "If we could get an arrangement between those countries," he declared, "we would be willing, if need be, to enter further engagements ourselves to back the arrangement arrived at." Eden spoke during the debate on Britain's new defense pact with Iraq and Turkey, signed in Baghdad yesterday. The House approved the alliance without a formal vote.

Will Use Radar

New York, April 5 (AP)—Radar equipment—and signs about it—are going to be used by city police in a campaign against speeding motorists on Gotham's parkways and expressways. Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams announced today that two mobile control units will start partolling the metropolis in June, making spot checks on several major thoroughfares daily. "In any event," Adams added, "it is believed that the signs warning the motorists of the radar check will have a salutary effect."

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 5 (AP)—The stock market advanced today, but the rise was a cautious affair in the early afternoon.

Gains and losses were narrow with the list around 2 points higher to a point lower in significant sections.

Trading was subdued and didn't even approach the pace which yesterday accounted for 2,500,000 shares for the day.

Some of the recently strong atomic stocks were up mildly—General Dynamics, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton, Foster Wheeler, and Bath Iron Works.

Highest Heads Can Roll, Latest Purges Indicate

(Fred Hampson, Associated Press Bureau chief in Hong Kong, watched first hand as the Chinese Communists took Shanghai, where he was chief of bureau until forced to leave six months later.)

By FRED HAMPSON

Taipei, Formosa, April 5 (AP)—Red China has done much purging since the Communists gained control in 1949, and the fate of Kao Kang and Jao Shu-shih proves that the highest heads can roll there too.

EARLIER PURGES all were class purges. Party men sometimes got caught in the elimination of landlords, unreformable bourgeoisie, unrepentant Nationalists, exploiters, reactionaries and enemies of the people, as the purges were labelled. But never above middle levels and never for reasons of party rebellion. No Peiping satrap fell until Kao Kang disappeared—fatally as it turned out—in January, 1954.

Li Li-san, the Russian trained doctrinaire, disappeared two years ago but has reappeared and seems to have regained some ground. He at least has not been shot.

Po Yi-po, former finance minister, faded conspicuously two years ago but he has washed away enough of his sins that he has been allowed to be elected to the National Congress.

KAO'S SUICIDE ends the myth that the Chinese Reds never let central committee or equivalent blood flow. Jao's failure to "repent" indicates some form of "suicide" awaits him too.

Three years ago Kao sounded like the biggest man in China next to Mao Tze-tung himself. As boss of the Manchurian semi-autonomous region he had rebuilt much of the industrial maze built by the Japanese and looted by the Russians. Compared to the rest of China, Manchuria looked good. Kao talked on every conceivable subject. The Red press printed it all and the peopel began to think that here was Mao's successor.

THEN HE WAS PUT in charge of the first five year plan. He no longer had the freedom of action he had had in Manchuria and at the end of the first three months had to put the first year's targets by a third.

The Reds say he was conspiring to seize power and that Jao joined him. Maybe. Kao appears to have been ambitious. But there was another story—that he told the party bluntly that its policies were hamstringing the industrial plan and that the fault lay not in leadership in the field but in party directives. From all you can find out about the five year plan, Kao was right. He also is dead.

THE CHINESE Nationalists say this purge reflects internal troubles in Red China and that any further retreat—such as at Matsu or Quemoy—would only ease the pressure in Peiping. Some Nationalists say Kao was too independent in Manchuria and that the Russians dealing with him were afraid they might get caught in a dangerous intrigue and chose to work for his removal. One Nationalist says: "This is a Russian purge in China."

Jao Shu-shih was the political officer to Gen. Chen Yi, commander of the third field army which took Shanghai in 1949. Jao was one of those silent manipulators of power. When China was divided into the military administrative districts (since abolished) Chen was the only field army commander who didn't get the governorship of the district he happened to be in. Instead it was Jao, the commissar, who got it and later went to Peiping as a central committee luminary who had a lot to say in party organization. There could be dozens of reasons for someone wanting to get rid of him.

Since 1949 more men than women have died of cancer annually, American Cancer Society statistics show.

Wagner, Harriman To Name Commission

New York, April 5 (AP)—Mayor Robert Wagner said today that he and Gov. Harriman will appoint a commission of "outstanding citizens" to study city-state financial relations.

He said they are doing so because the Legislature failed to set up such a commission.

"We have in mind to appoint people respected by everyone in the state to do an objective study," he said. "To take this whole problem out of the political arena would be helpful to New York."

The mayor revealed the plan when asked at a press conference to comment on the Legislature's failure to name a commission on city-state fiscal problems, as requested by the Governor.

The mayor said he felt the "Legislature could not ignore the opinion of such outstanding citizens" as those which will be sought for analyzing the perennial problem of handling state and New York city revenues.

Up to Reds . . .

quickly. Arranging such a meeting is a complicated business, he observed.

In answer to another question, Dulles drew a distinction between a formal Big Four foreign ministers meeting and an informal one. But, he said, something as important as the future of western Germany, for example, would have to be handled at a formal session, because of the need for technical experts and careful preparation.

He emphasized western Germany must be permitted to play a very active role in any east-west conference which seeks to chart German's future.

U. S. Is Accused

London, April 5 (AP)—Russia's armed forces newspaper accused the United States today of turning Alaska into a bridgehead for a coming war against the Soviet Union. The blast in Red Star was broadcast by Moscow radio. It asserted: "Alaska is regarded by the American authorities as the extreme northwestern outpost of their aggressive armed forces. One billion dollars have already been spent for military construction in Alaska and on the Aleutian islands and these expenditures are growing all the time.

The matter is to be given further study and a report made at a special meeting to be called soon.

The date for the annual dinner meeting was announced. The dinner will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Wednesday, April 20, at 6:30 o'clock.

A report of the nominating committee will be made at a meeting to be called shortly when officers and directors for the ensuing year will be named.

Eden Is Experienced For Expected Duties

(By The Associated Press.)

Sir Anthony Eden, in line for the prime ministry of Great Britain in succession to Sir Winston Churchill, will bring to that difficult job the experience of serving as foreign secretary through three critical periods of history. He is 57.

Throughout his career Eden has pursued a policy of close association with the United States —and of peace through strength.

AT 41 EDEN WALKED out of the job as foreign secretary Feb. 20, 1938 in protest against Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of appeasing Hitler.

The gesture moved the more experienced Churchill, who had been shouting warnings against Hitler's rise to power from a back bench in the House of Commons. He adopted Eden as his political protege with this stirring tribute—"he seemed to me at this moment to embody the life-hope of the British nation."

The Churchill-Eden prophecies proved too true to a nation slow to heed their warnings.

BRITAIN TURNED to them in grave peril and together—Churchill as prime minister and Eden once again as foreign secretary—they led the empire to victory alongside its allies in World War II.

The team has remained—with Eden at the age of 57 inheriting the mantle of his 80-year-old mentor.

The story of that fateful 1938 night the Churchill-Eden partnership was born was told by "the old man" 10 years later in his war memoirs:

". . . Late in the night of Feb. 20 a telephone message reached me as I sat in my old room at Chartwell (as I often sit now) that Eden had resigned.

"I MUST CONFESS that my heart sank, and for a while the dark waters of despair overwhelmed me. . . . On this night of Feb. 20, 1938, and on this occasion only, sleep deserted me. From midnight 'till dawn I lay in my bed consumed by emotions of sorrow and fear.

"There seemed one strong figure standing up against long, dismal drawling tides of drift and surrender, of wrong measures and feeble impulses . . . he seemed to me at this moment to embody the life-hope of the British nation.

"I watched the daylight slowly creep in through the windows, and saw before me in mental gaze the vision of death."

Gunman Takes $3,295 In Cafeteria Holdup

New York, April 5 (AP) — A gunman, his face partially covered with a white handkerchief, escaped with $3,295 from the Garden Cafeteria, 165 East Broadway, today after threatening the manager.

The manager, Burt Feinberg, of 34-40 79th Street, Jackson Heights, Queens, said he withdrew the money this morning from the Public National Bank and Trust Company, 175 East Broadway, for use in the day's business.

The gunman confronted Feinberg with a gun and demanded the money when he returned to his office.

Purge of Farm Bosses Lagging, Soviet Admits

London, April 5 (AP)—The Soviet government admitted today that its purge of collective farm bosses has bogged down.

"The work of strengthening collective farms with executive personnel is making unsatisfactory progress," said Pravda in a dispatch that radio Moscow broadcast to the Soviet press.

THE BROADCAST, monitored here, revealed that the Central Committee of the Communist party decided in January to clean out the collective farm managers and set July as the date when the purge should be finished.

Today's broadcast also revealed 30,000 jobs were at stake.

The campaign to weed out inefficient and corrupt managers of collective farms was aired last week by Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party chief, in a speech to farms and party workers in the Voronezh area.

HE SAID "tens of thousands" of particularly qualified workers in the party and other organizations were being sought to take over direction of lagging collective farms.

In reporting the bogging down of the purge, Moscow radio said:

"It must be noted that heading a number of collective farms there are still unsatisfactory officials who do not come up to the standard required by the present exacting demands.

"This more than anything else explains the continuing lagging behind of some collective farms."

THE BROADCAST also disclosed that a companion purge of bosses of the country's far-flung machine tractor stations affected 120,000 persons and that it has been completed.

"Much work has been done to strengthen the machine tractor stations with qualified personnel—directors, chief engineers and workshop superintendents," the broadcast said.

IBM Leases Storage Property

It was announced today by Gavin A. Cullen, general manager of the Kingston IBM plant, that the company had leased the Genco property on the East Chester by-pass for storage purposes. The lease became effective as of April 1.

The property, formerally operated by Joseph Genco, owner, as a gas station and repair shop, consists of the gas station and a large concrete block building containing 6,000 square feet of floor space. Genco said the entire property had been leased to IBM and he was closing his gas station. He said he had no immediate plans.

The building, one story in height, has a 16-foot headway and two large 14-by-14 foot entrance doors capable to taking in large trucks.

Chavez Gives View

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Sen. Chavez (D.-N.M.) said today he doesn't know what congressional critics of army manpower cuts can do if the Eisenhower administration is determined to go through with them. "We can't force them to spend the money, even if we give it to them," Chavez said. He heads an appropriations subcommittee which yesterday opened hearings on the administration's request for about 35 billion dollars in the bookkeeping year starting July 1. Chavez said in an interview he thinks a majority of the 15-man subcommittee agrees with him the cuts projected in the size of the army are unwise. But he conceded there is little the senators can do about it.

Briefs Are Submitted

New York, April 5 (AP)—Briefs were submitted to the Appellate Division in Brooklyn yesterday in the appeal of Edwin Codarre, convicted in 1942 on a second degree murder charge. There were no oral arguments by attorneys on the appeal, based on an alleged trial error. It was expected that the court's ruling would be returned in about three weeks.

Churchill Quits

queen. Wearing top hat, polka dot tie and a shining gold watch chain, he went to the palace by limousine accompanied only by his son-in-law and private secretary, Christopher Soames.

Eden stayed behind. A lone figure was seen peering from the window of his suite in the foreign office as Churchill left Downing street on his momentous ride.

Soon after Churchill returned to Downing street at 5:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m., EST) Buckingham Palace issued this formal announcement:

"The Right Honorable Sir Winston Churchill had an audience of the Queen this evening and tendered his resignation as Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to accept."

MORE THAN 2,000 persons pressed into old Downing street as the Prime Minister left for the palace at 4:22 p. m.

Churchill was playing out his last role in the Prime Ministry he loved. A gray day had brightened into pale sunshine.

He posed for a full minute in the doorway of the historic home of Prime Ministers, so that photographers could record the scene.

The shouts and excitement seemed to catch some Britons by surprise. London newspapers were strike-bound and firm news of Churchill's impending retirement had come over the British Broadcasting Corp. only today.

Churchill served almost nine years as Britain's Prime Minister. He had two terms.

He was at the helm from May 10, 1940, to July 26, 1945, a period of five years, 2 months, 16 days. That covered all but eight months of World War 2.

He resumed the office Oct. 26, 1951, and had held it until his resignation today. That's 3 years, 5 months and 10 days.

Geneva Williams

in Baltimore county, which the railroad transverses north and south for a distance of about 24 miles. The county, which virtually surrounds Baltimore city, is a separate government entity.

Miss Williams was returned here from Poughkeepsie last Thursday by county detectives.

Miss Williams was arrested at the home of her mother in Poughkeepsie following intensive investigation by police of that city after the body of her baby was discovered in an unused ice locker at the New York Central Railroad station.

POUGHKEEPSIE POLICE Chief John L. Martin said the body had been concealed in the locker on or about March 13, but was not discovered until March 22. The arrest was made Friday, March 25, and Miss Williams was booked at Poughkeepsie on a misdemeanor charge—concealing the birth of a baby—pending conferences between Dutchess county District Attorney Raymond Barrata and State's Attorney Raine of Maryland.

Williams Seems

lead over Carr's running mate, former Republican State Treasurer D. Hale Brake of Stanton.

Two judges were chosen. Each party nominated two candidates although the ballot was nonpartisan.

Last November the Democrats made inroads on the Republicans' traditionally heavy majority in the Legislature. But the Republicans still have a 58-51 seat advantage in the House and a 23-10 margin in the Senate.

Gov. Williams, often mentioned as a presidential candidate in 1956, was regarded as seeking national stature by his attempts to reverse a traditionally Republican state.

His coalition of Democrats and labor unionists reacted strongly, apparently, to Republican attempts in this election to depict the CIO Political Action Committee as seeking to gain control of the courts and the educational system.

Says Britain Ready

London, April 5 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons last night Britain is ready to underwrite any reasonable peace agreement worked out between Israel and the Arab nations. "If we could get an arrangement between those countries," he declared, "we would be willing, if need be, to enter further engagements ourselves to back the arrangement arrived at." Eden spoke during the debate on Britain's new defense pact with Iraq and Turkey, signed in Baghdad yesterday. The House approved the alliance without a formal vote.

Will Use Radar

New York, April 5 (AP)—Radar equipment—and signs about it—are going to be used by city police in a campaign against speeding motorists on Gotham's parkways and expressways. Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams announced today that two mobile control units will start partolling the metropolis in June, making spot checks on several major thoroughfares daily. "In any event," Adams added, "it is believed that the signs warning the motorists of the radar check will have a salutary effect."

New York, April 5 (AP)—The stock market advanced today, but the rise was a cautious affair in the early afternoon.

Gains and losses were narrow with the list around 2 points higher to a point lower in significant sections.

Trading was subdued and didn't even approach the pace which yesterday accounted for 2,500,000 shares for the day.

Some of the recently strong atomic stocks were up mildly—General Dynamics, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton, Foster Wheeler, and Bath Iron Works.

Highest Heads Can Roll, Latest Purges Indicate

(Fred Hampson, Associated Press Bureau chief in Hong Kong, watched first hand as the Chinese Communists took Shanghai, where he was chief of bureau until forced to leave six months later.)

By FRED HAMPSON

Taipei, Formosa, April 5 (AP)—Red China has done much purging since the Communists gained control in 1949, and the fate of Kao Kang and Jao Shu-shih proves that the highest heads can roll there too.

EARLIER PURGES all were class purges. Party men sometimes got caught in the elimination of landlords, unreformable bourgeoisie, unrepentant Nationalists, exploiters, reactionaries and enemies of the people, as the purges were labelled. But never above middle levels and never for reasons of party rebellion. No Peiping satrap fell until Kao Kang disappeared—fatally as it turned out—in January, 1954.

Li Li-san, the Russian trained doctrinaire, disappeared two years ago but has reappeared and seems to have regained some ground. He at least has not been shot.

Po Yi-po, former finance minister, faded conspicuously two years ago but he has washed away enough of his sins that he has been allowed to be elected to the National Congress.

KAO'S SUICIDE ends the myth that the Chinese Reds never let central committee or equivalent blood flow. Jao's failure to "repent" indicates some form of "suicide" awaits him too.

Three years ago Kao sounded like the biggest man in China next to Mao Tze-tung himself. As boss of the Manchurian semi-autonomous region he had rebuilt much of the industrial maze built by the Japanese and looted by the Russians. Compared to the rest of China, Manchuria looked good. Kao talked on every conceivable subject. The Red press printed it all and the peopel began to think that here was Mao's successor.

THEN HE WAS PUT in charge of the first five year plan. He no longer had the freedom of action he had had in Manchuria and at the end of the first three months had to put the first year's targets by a third.

The Reds say he was conspiring to seize power and that Jao joined him. Maybe. Kao appears to have been ambitious. But there was another story — that he told the party bluntly that its policies were hamstringing the industrial plan and that the fault lay not in leadership in the field but in party directives. From all you can find out about the five year plan, Kao was right. He also is dead.

THE CHINESE Nationalists say this purge reflects internal troubles in Red China and that any further retreat—such as at Matsu or Quemoy — would only ease the pressure in Peiping. Some Nationalists say Kao was too independent in Manchuria and that the Russians dealing with him were afraid they might get caught in a dangerous intrigue and chose to work for his removal. One Nationalist says: "This is a Russian purge in China."

Jao Shu-shih was the political officer to Gen. Chen Yi, commander of the third field army which took Shanghai in 1949. Jao was one of those silent manipulators of power. When China was divided into the military administrative districts (since abolished) Chen was the only field army commander who didn't get the governorship of the district he happened to be in. Instead it was Jao, the commissar, who got it and later went to Peiping as a central committee luminary who had a lot to say in party organization. There could be dozens of reasons for someone wanting to get rid of him.

Since 1949 more men than women have died of cancer annually, American Cancer Society statistics show.

Wagner, Harriman To Name Commission

New York, April 5 (AP)—Mayor Robert Wagner said today that he and Gov. Harriman will appoint a commission of "outstanding citizens" to study city-state financial relations.

He said they are doing so because the Legislature failed to set up such a commission.

"We have in mind to appoint people respected by everyone in the state to do an objective study," he said. "To take this whole problem out of the political arena would be helpful to New York."

The mayor revealed the plan when asked at a press conference to comment on the Legislature's failure to name a commission on city-state fiscal problems, as requested by the Governor.

The mayor said he felt the "Legislature could not ignore the opinion of such outstanding citizens" as those which will be sought for analyzing the perennial problem of handling state and New York city revenues.

Up to Reds . . .

quickly. Arranging such a meeting is a complicated business, he observed.

In answer to another question, Dulles drew a distinction between a formal Big Four foreign ministers meeting and an informal one. But, he said, something as important as the future of western Germany, for example, would have to be handled at a formal session, because of the need for technical experts and careful preparation.

He emphasized western Germany must be permitted to play a very active role in any east-west conference which seeks to chart German's future.

U. S. Is Accused

London, April 5 (AP)—Russia's armed forces newspaper accused the United States today of turning Alaska into a bridgehead for a coming war against the Soviet Union. The blast in Red Star was broadcast by Moscow radio. It asserted: "Alaska is regarded by the American authorities as the extreme northwestern outpost of their aggressive armed forces. One billion dollars have already been spent for military construction in Alaska and on the Aleutian islands and these expenditures are growing all the time.

Holy Week With Jesus

Palm Sunday

As Jesus left His mother dear
Whose Heart was filled with love and fear
His travels started with palms and cheer
From people crying "Hosanna"
Our blessed King is here

Monday

Now when the multitude was gone
Our Master was once more alone
He wandered here, He wandered there
Seems no one had a resting place to spare
Oh! blessed, happy thought to know
Dear Jesus found an open door
To rest Himself and sit at meat
With Mary, Martha and Lazarus, indeed

Tuesday

Now in the starry twilight morn
Our Saviour to the city returned
He taught, He prophesied and healed
He prayed, He fasted
To God for strength He appealed

Wednesday

Oh Jesus dear, do tell me pray
What happened to you
On the very next day?
"Betrayed by Judas, and then sold
Oh woe, deep woe, I loved Him so"

Thursday

Our Lord and Saviour with the twelve
Went up to Jerusalem for the day to dwell
The large guest chamber, the upper room
Was ready for the disciples and Christ—their Groom
Here Jesus gave to everybody
The wine—His blood, the bread—His body
Oh holy sacrament of love
That makes us one with Christ above

Friday

Now Christ was led to meet His death
He climbed the hill, He carried His cross
The wicked jeered, His followers feared
All stayed with Him, the good, the bad
They heard His words, the good were sad
Yes, after death, our Saviour dear
Was in the hands of friends right near
They took His body from the cross
Wrapped it in spice and linen cloths
And laid it in a new hewn tomb
In Joseph's garden, where lilies bloomed

Saturday

Oh! they who loved Him long and well
Were crushed with sorrow and despair, the Bible tells Since He whose powers had seemed so strong
Lay dead within the garden small

Sunday

Easter Morn! a new dawn, Christ is risen, heaven born
Now we know when Christ said to the sinner at his left
"Yet today you will be with Me in eternity"
Well I know, so do you, what Christ's crib and cross can do
Believe in Him, trust in Him
Through heaven's gate, we'll walk with Him.

NEW TYPE OF WORKER

While the social and economic dangers of increasing automation in industry cannot be ignored, neither should the new employment opportunities, calling for new skills, be overlooked. The potentials in the latter direction are great.

But, says Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, American labor is not yet equipped to take up the new job opportunities presenting themselves today. He claims that the nation's work force has yet to catch up "in terms of skill" to the growing demands of the atomic age.

In fact, he has said that American workers "are inadequate from the standpoint of skills to meet the demand which is going to be placed upon them as we move into the age of the atom."

America's products are as much the result of the skills of the workers as of the efficiency of industrial machines. Unless an attempt is made to maintain the skills of the labor force, serious consequences are ahead.

The danger, as Secretary Mitchell implied, is that we are moving into a new age while clinging to the ideas of the old. Instead of thinking solely in terms of labor being displaced by automation machinery we would do well to think of the skills that will be needed and begin taking steps now to meet those needs.

An American General is reported to have spent $52,000 in government money to fix up a house for himself in Germany. That is quite a bit of money to spend to assure yourself a permanent home in the doghouse.

ELECTING DIRECTLY

The proposal to elect presidents directly instead of by the electoral college is up again. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota has introduced a constitutional amendment to this effect. He argues that the present indirect mode of election may defeat the popular will, and has actually done so. In 1876 a dispute over the award of electoral votes ended in seating Rutherford B. Hayes in the presidency, though Samuel T. Tilden had received 250,000 more popular votes. Again in 1888 Grover Cleveland had 100,000 more votes than Benjamin Harrison, but Harrison won the electoral college and became president.

If the change goes through, there will have to be more supervision of the state counts. Nowadays some states are so sure one way or the other that there is no point in getting out a larger vote for the majority party. Under the new system every vote would count, no matter where it was cast. The temptation would be great, in states where voting frauds have been known, to stuff the ballot box in favor of a particular presidential candidate. If one nominee won because of an extraordinarily large vote in a suspected state, the outcry would be great.

Points like this will doubtless be brought up in the committee hearings.

The ideal time of year is that period when there is no more snow to shovel and the grass is not yet ready to be mowed.

A FINE DEMONSTRATION

Let no one imagine that because 19 of 23 persons aboard survived, the crash of a Pan American Stratocruiser off the Oregon coast was a minor air accident. It had all the potentialities of total disaster.

Preliminary reports indicate the big ship was subjected to a sudden terrific buffeting by the wind, which tore one of four motors loose from its mounting and sent the engine plunging into the sea. Thereafter the plane lost altitude, and within eight minutes the pilot had ditched it in the ocean.

Despite the suddenness of the crisis, the crew performed calmly and capably in getting passengers out of the plane and preparing life rafts and other emergency equipment. Several passengers exhibited high courage, especially Mrs. David Darrow, who saw her husband drift away and drown but kept attending other passengers.

And a word should be said for the alert air defense radar crew which tracked the plane to its crash spot, and the Navy vessel which managed speedy rescue.

All around, a fine demonstration of how to meet an emergency.

HOSTAGES

Cedric Blaker, Chairman of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, one of the leading financial institutions of the world, is an optimistic gentleman who hopes for the best. This bank has played a most significant role in the development of the China trade—not only between China and Great Britain but between China and all the world. It used to be the fortress of stability in every treaty port of China and in all the cities of the Far East.

Mr. Blaker hopes for an early settlement of the bank's problems in China, "including the repatriation of its Shanghai manager." Now, that is a point that defies optimism. The Shanghai manager may not leave; he is held as a hostage against the possibility of the bank withdrawing. Neither the bank nor any foreign firm is permitted to leave or permitted to do business except such as the Communist government desires done and then under the tightest supervision.

It is amusing to read this optimistic report because in order to see the bank's representative in Shanghai, a Hongkong and Shanghai Bank official accompanied the British trade mission to Peking in November. That was the only way that these bank officials could see each other. It sure requires a tremendous faith to say: "We now look hopefully to China for a move." Mr. Blaker's optimism is so overpowering that he said:

"The potentialities are as great as they have been for over 100 years, and would be still greater if political and ideological difficulties and suspicions could be swept away."

Of course, that is what stumps everybody—the political and ideological difficulties and suspicions. Nobody has yet been able to sweep them away. They persist because the Communists do believe in their political system and they do believe in what are called their ideologies.

If only the Westerners could get it into their heads that the Communists mean what they think and say what they believe to be true, we should not be in such difficulties about them. They do not believe in private property, no matter who owns the private property. They do not believe that foreigners have a right to "exploit" a colonial or a semi-colonial country, but they have no objection to using the "exploiters" for their own purposes until it is no longer necessary to use them.

This Lenin did in his early phases; it was characteristic of his New Economic Policy, which in the 1920's offered such hopes for the Western World which believed it would verily clean up on the enormous Russian trade—a trade that never materialized. So the China trade will be a Marxist trade, a government operation, with private enterprise reduced to a minimum and eventually wiped out altogether as unnecessary.

"The London Times" reports:

"Mr. Blaker doubted whether the Soviet bloc could do much more than it was now doing in the way of loans and technical assistance to China. So far China had followed the Soviet road because there had been no other road to follow. That was why many of them thought that it would be wise policy for the democratic countries to open an alternative route. . . ."

The difficulty with this argument is that the Chinese Communists are Communists. They have been Communists since 1920 when they attended the Baku Congress of Nations. That was 35 years ago and they have not defected since then. They were young men, college students in those days; now they are mature men in power, successful beyond their dreams and successful, as they know, because Russia has backed them and supported them and protected them during all those years. They are deeply grounded in Marxism; in fact, Mao Tze-tung is regarded today throughout the Soviet world as the most profound Marxist philosopher in the world.

Why should these men choose another road? What advantage could it be for them? What could they possibly gain? But even more significantly, how can they reconcile their beliefs with another road? The Western business man seems always to believe that every man has his price, that few men or perhaps only insane men take positions that do not make sense to business men. They do not seem ever to grasp that some men live as they do and act as they do because they believe it to be the true way.

Once we grasp that, we could understand our peril the better.

That Body of Yours

GETTING UP AFTER HERNIA OPERATION

We have written before of the beneficial results from early ambulation (getting up and about) after operations, but, unfortunately, there is one type of operation—hernioplasty, which is the surgical cure of hernia—after which many physicians are still rather unwilling to try this early ambulation. They feel that such a program may delay healing of the wound and therefore increase the chances of the hernia occurring again. Some also feel that the lines of "stress and strain" are peculiarly different in this area of the body as compared with the adjoining areas of the upper part of the wall of the abdomen.

However, in a series of cases studied by Drs. Palumbo, Paul, and Mighell, with careful follow-up examinations, it was found that there was practically no difference in the number of cases of the hernia reappearing in those who were allowed up early after operation as compared with those who were not allowed up until later. To be exact, in 873 cases, the patients were allowed up on the first day, and in 363 cases they were not allowed up until between the seventh and fourteenth day after operation. The hernia came back again in 1.2 per cent of the cases allowed up early and in 1.3 per cent of those not allowed up until later. Of course, in cases where the surgeon is not experience in this type of operation, the hernia may recur more often.

Just what are the advantages to be found in early ambulation? Perhaps the most important advantage is that it reduces the number of complications which may occur in the stomach and intestinal tract, and in the lungs, heart and blood vessels. The complication rate was only 5.7 per cent in early ambulation as compared with 19.4 per cent in late ambulation.

We are reminded that aside from the advantages of safety and reduction in the number of complications, it is very encouraging to the patient to be up and about, reduces the time he has to stay in hospital, reduces the cost of his medical expenses, and allows him back to work sooner. I have a surgeon friend who underwent an operation for hernia on a Monday morning and drove his car home from the hospital on the following Saturday afternoon. There is the added fact that hospital beds are not held so long and so are available for other patients sooner.

These good results in such a large number of patients should encourage us to follow along should our surgeon advise our getting up and about quite soon after operation.

"Just Say When and Where"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — There will be cheering and groans from both consumer and business types over the ten major recommendations of Attorney General Herbert Brownell's 61-man National Committee to study the antitrust laws.

Its 394-page report has just been filed after 18 months of preparation by numerous work groups of professors and antitrust lawyers. Its recommendations are almost impossible to find. But advance orders from judges, attorneys and students indicate the report will become a legal best seller.

Judge Stanley M. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the Department of Justice Antitrust Division and co-chairman of the committee of 61, says that its recommendations for ten law changes and 50 out of 60 administrative procedures changes will materially strengthen antitrust law enforcement.

Louis B. Schwartz, professor of law at University of Pennsylvania, in a general dissent at the end of the report, says that the majority view "would weaken the antitrust laws in a number of respects, and, even more important, it fails to adopt necessary measures for strengthening the law so as to create a truly competitive economy in the country."

BETWEEN THESE TWO extremes, anyone can take his pick. As a matter of fact, that's what many of the 61 members do. It is of course impossible to get 61 lawyers to agree on anything. This report is liberally larded with dissents.

Judge Barnes himself, the U. S. government's chief antitrust enforcement officer, admits that he dissented from majority views in many instances. He won't say where. There is no box score on who favored what.

Principal architect of the report is S. Chesterfield Oppenheim, professor of law at University of Michigan, the committee's other co-chairman. With an admitted 27 years' experience in antitrust law, Professor Oppenheim has done considerable lecturing and writing for antitrust law reform.

The basic principle of the report, however, is that: "Although many forces and other government policies have materially promoted our creative American economy, we believe the antitrust laws remain one of the most important."

In other words, the antitrust laws are here to stay. The committee did not set out deliberately to wreck them, as it was at first feared they might do.

THE REPORT ITSELF IS not fact-finding but opinion. It has no official standing as government policy. It is an advisory report to the attorney general. He can write a report of his own to the President, agreeing or disagreeing with committee recommendations.

It will then be up to the President to recommend to Congress what changes he thinks should be made in antitrust law. What Congress will do about it is anybody's guess, but it is now considering some reforms of its own.

The committee recommended no changes in the basic sections of the 65-year-old Sherman law. No changes were recommended on the law governing mergers nor on the patent provisions of antitrust law.

The 61 experts completely passed the buck by recommending to Congress that it investigate labor union practices that might lead to restraint of trade. This was apparently too hot a potato to handle below the law-making level.

RECOMMENDATIONS TO repeal the Miller-Tydings "Fair Trade" law and the McGuire amendment which forces the charging of fixed retail prices on all distributors will be hailed by consumers, but damned by producers and many dealers.

Authorizing the Attorney General to issue a "civil investigative demand" for the production of documents in antitrust case examinations, before grand jury probes, is a brand-new search warrant idea in American law.

Fixing antitrust statute of limitations at four years is an average view of the committee. Changing of penalties should meet little opposition. This covers ending of compulsory treble damages, and increasing of criminal penalty maximum from $5000 to $10,000.

The House of Representatives has just voted to increase this maximum penalty to $50,000, which makes the committee's recommendation rather mild.

Today in Washington

Defense of Quemoy by United States Called Valid Under International Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4—Time was when the mention of the phrase "international law" meant certain, well defined principles of international conduct which history and custom had placed in a recognized code.

But today the words "international law" can be bandied about in public and few people question their real meaning in given situations. This may be due to unfamiliarity with the precedents or to forgetfulness.

Thus, in the new resolution backed by several Democratic Senators who now want to reverse the decision taken by an overwhelming majority of both Houses recently, which gave the President authority to defend Formosa and related areas, there occurs this language:

"WHEREAS the United States under international law has no territorial rights or claims to the Matsu and Quemoy Islands; and whereas a military defense of said islands by the United States subjects the United States to the charge of acts of aggression and involvement in a Chinese civil war. . . ."

But, under international law, the Republic of China is today the recognized government, and there is no involvement in a civil war from a legal standpoint if the United States continues to recognize the same government. To honor the request of a constituted government for military aid in resisting rebellion is a well established principle of international law and, so far as the United States government is concerned, the Nationalist government is the constituted government.

IN GREECE for example, the United States rendered military assistance to the constituted government a few years ago.

Entirely apart from the principle of extending military aid to a recognized government, there are other facts which would legalize the action of the United States in defending the Quemoy and Matsu Islands. Thus, the government of Red China took part in a major war in Korea against the United States and allied forces. An armistice now has been signed, but an armistice is not a treaty of peace. It continues from the viewpoint of international law the legal conditions of a state of war which existed as against Red China before the armistice was signed.

THIS ARMISTICE, moreover, has been repeatedly violated by the Red Chinese. Americans captured during the war have not been returned as required by that agreement.

Yet so far afield have some American writers gone in their anxiety to appease the Red Chinese that the United States government now is blatantly accused of having a "guilty conscience" in ordering the release of the seventy-six Chinese students held in America during the Korean War.

One editorial in an eastern newspaper concedes that "it would have been foolhardy to have permitted persons who could aid the Chinese to return during the fighting" in Korea but argues that "after the fighting ceased, there was no moral or legal justification for retaining them."

SINCE WHEN does an armistice which stops the fighting also end the legal rights of two belligerents? The United States has every right to retain any foreign nationals during a state of war and, when an armistice comes, to return only those specified in the agreement. It is for a peace treaty, when duly signed and ratified, to say what disposition should be made of the foreign nationals and their property seized during a war. For, after all, it was a war in Korea — more than 140,000 Americans were killled or wounded in it.

The American government, therefore, cannot be rightly accused of having a sense of guilt but rather must be commended for doing a generous thing—not required by international law or the terms of the armistice—in giving up custody of the Red Chinese students. For they possess information about atomic physics and technical skills acquired during their stay in this country which could be used against American troops if the existing armistice breaks down and the Korean war is resumed. Also, since when does a government formally declared an "aggressor" by the United Nations, and still unpunished, acquire "rights" under international law?

Thermal Barrier Tests

College Park, Md. (AP) — University of Maryland scientists are seeking the answers to the problem of the "thermal barrier" in a specially constructed tube 12 feet long. In the tube, Prof. Edward L. Resler and his associates have been able to produce shock waves such as those that would be generated by a projectile traveling 30,400 miles per hour. The "thermal barrier" is the term applied to the problem of heat caused by friction with the air at speed of more than five times that of sound when metals begin to melt. Although the project is one of pure research, Dr. Resler believes it will produce information of value to missile and aircraft designers. A speed of 25,000 miles per hour is needed for any missile to escape from the earth's gravitation.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

President Eisenhower recently hollered up a program of highway construction to lace the country with freight routes, suitable for passengers, too, east to west, north to south and this way and that. The automobile industry would like that, but the immediate beneficiaries would be the two unions which would have "jurisdiction" over the construction work. These are the hodcarriers and common laborers and the operating engineers, two of the worst gangs of legbreakers and all-around terrorists in the whole racket, with a majestic overall record of extortion from contractors and workers. The contractors are versatile porch-climbers themselves so perish the thought that they have been innocent victims of nefarious doing by their partners in crime. On government jobs, contractors get their heads together and take turns bidding low, and it is uniform practice, barring exceptions to prove a melancholy rule, to add a standard proportion of union graft to the ultimate bill against the taxpayers. Then the contractors get ten percent of the amount extorted on top of their normal plus. Their condition as victims of sinful greed is relieved by built-in compensations.

The Teamsters' Union would come next. We would build a magnificent tracery of avenues, with clover-leaves and over and underpasses and de luxe doggeries and 'burger huts at convenient intervals. Then we would hand over to Dave Beck and the Teamsters' Union, a charter authorizing the union to drive all the commerce off the entire system at will. If the construction is going to cost us $101 billion, as I have read it will, we would be wise to figure on ten billion, one hundred million as graft. Thereafter, the Teamsters' Union would dominate these highways like the barons on the Rhine. These fellows hold "book-checks" at the pull-up stations, frisking drivers to make sure that they have paid their tribute for permission to drive on our public thoroughfares, but with a roguish pretense that they are only looking out for their safety by forcing weary men to snooze, inspecting their air pressure and so forth. They are very bold and growing more so, thanks in large part to ballyhoo published in slick national magazines and metropolitan Sunday sections depicting Beck as a splendid character and a labor statesman.

Beck is a strong-arm unioneer who introduced the word "goon" to our language by throwing cordons of thugs around premises in Seattle which he had declared out of bounds for reasons of his own. A "goon" was a dehumanized monster, which, at the time, was having a season in a comic strip local circulation. Later, Beck scrubbed his neck, but his character has not changed and if he gets jurisdiction over this maze of concrete roads, the people will have to fight him for possession. If that system would increase the motor freight traffic tenfold, it would increase Beck's revenues and his monopoly that much or more. There would be persuasive reasons for all the drivers, helpers, loaders and warehousemen to join and pay dues and incidentals plus the "welfare" insurance tribute which is now compulsory.

Of course the increasihg traffic will require more and better highways, but the several states should take the responsibility and not the national government.

Ike got an unexpected rebuff from some of the governors when he pulled his plan on them, but Mr. Ike is a stranger around here. He knows little about our system of government and the practical realities of life under a regime which accepts rackets as familiar incidentals. After the experience of Roosevelt's "wah effawt" with out-of-town talent holding exclusive licenses to loot, these governors naturally bethought themselves of their local experts. Does Illinois have to import dynamiters from New York? Must Arkansas yield to murderers from St. Louis? The governors also realized that this grand undertaking would deprive state and local machines of opportunities vital to the life of any normal pack of parasites.

The whole idea is beautiful by itself. But for years railroad men have been pointing out that thousands of miles of roadbed, right-of-way, tracks and communication equipment are used scarcely one minute out of a hundred. The only problem is rates. And the pathetic fact always bobs up that a nation with a great passel of mathetmaticians so brilliant that they can't tell right from wrong cannot figure out a system of freight rates which would enable the railroads to draw anything like the number of customers which they can handle.

Grand Central Terminal in New York is an absurd hulk consisting of 99 per cent waste space. It is strictly a passenger station and Central doesn't carry enough passengers in and out of New York to occupy its capacity for 15 minutes a day. Anyway, long-haul passenger traffic is going by air in increasing numbers and freight, too, will be less and less earthbound.

Richmond, Va. (AP)—The mayor of the little town of Ashland, Va., once known as "Slash Cottage," invited the mayor of Richmond to the town's 100th anniversary as Ashland. The acceptance came from the mayor of "None Such." Legend has it that this name was given to Richmond by Capt. John Smith in early colonial times when the doughty captain discounted the reports brought to him about the proposed site for a town.

Under the new system every vote would count, no matter where it was cast. The temptation would be great, in states where voting frauds have been known, to stuff the ballot box in favor of a particular presidential candidate. If one nominee won because of an extraordinarily large vote in a suspected state, the outcry would be great.

Points like this will doubtless be brought up in the committee hearings.

The ideal time of year is that period when there is no more snow to shovel and the grass is not yet ready to be mowed.

A FINE DEMONSTRATION

Let no one imagine that because 19 of 23 persons aboard survived, the crash of a Pan American Stratocruiser off the Oregon coast was a minor air accident. It had all the potentialities of total disaster.

Preliminary reports indicate the big ship was subjected to a sudden terrific buffeting by the wind, which tore one of four motors loose from its mounting and sent the engine plunging into the sea. Thereafter the plane lost altitude, and within eight minutes the pilot had ditched it in the ocean.

Despite the suddenness of the crisis, the crew performed calmly and capably in getting passengers out of the plane and preparing life rafts and other emergency equipment. Several passengers exhibited high courage, especially Mrs. David Darrow, who saw her husband drift away and drown but kept attending other passengers.

And a word should be said for the alert air defense radar crew which tracked the plane to its crash spot, and the Navy vessel which managed speedy rescue.

All around, a fine demonstration of how to meet an emergency.

HOSTAGES

Cedric Blaker, Chairman of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, one of the leading financial institutions of the world, is an optimistic gentleman who hopes for the best. This bank has played a most significant role in the development of the China trade—not only between China and Great Britain but between China and all the world. It used to be the fortress of stability in every treaty port of China and in all the cities of the Far East.

Mr. Blaker hopes for an early settlement of the bank's problems in China, "including the repatriation of its Shanghai manager." Now, that is a point that defies optimism. The Shanghai manager may not leave; he is held as a hostage against the possibility of the bank withdrawing. Neither the bank nor any foreign firm is permitted to leave or permitted to do business except such as the Communist government desires done and then under the tightest supervision.

It is amusing to read this optimistic report because in order to see the bank's representative in Shanghai, a Hongkong and Shanghai Bank official accompanied the British trade mission to Peking in November. That was the only way that these bank officials could see each other. It sure requires a tremendous faith to say: "We now look hopefully to China for a move." Mr. Blaker's optimism is so overpowering that he said:

"The potentialities are as great as they have been for over 100 years, and would be still greater if political and ideological difficulties and suspicions could be swept away."

Of course, that is what stumps everybody—the political and ideological difficulties and suspicions. Nobody has yet been able to sweep them away. They persist because the Communists do believe in their political system and they do believe in what are called their ideologies.

If only the Westerners could get it into their heads that the Communists mean what they think and say what they believe to be true, we should not be in such difficulties about them. They do not believe in private property, no matter who owns the private property. They do not believe that foreigners have a right to "exploit" a colonial or a semi-colonial country, but they have no objection to using the "exploiters" for their own purposes until it is no longer necessary to use them.

This Lenin did in his early phases; it was characteristic of his New Economic Policy, which in the 1920's offered such hopes for the Western World which believed it would verily clean up on the enormous Russian trade—a trade that never materialized. So the China trade will be a Marxist trade, a government operation, with private enterprise reduced to a minimum and eventually wiped out altogether as unnecessary.

"The London Times" reports:

"Mr. Blaker doubted whether the Soviet bloc could do much more than it was now doing in the way of loans and technical assistance to China. So far China had followed the Soviet road because there had been no other road to follow. That was why many of them thought that it would be wise policy for the democratic countries to open an alternative route. . . ."

The difficulty with this argument is that the Chinese Communists are Communists. They have been Communists since 1920 when they attended the Baku Congress of Nations. That was 35 years ago and they have not defected since then. They were young men, college students in those days; now they are mature men in power, successful beyond their dreams and successful, as they know, because Russia has backed them and supported them and protected them during all those years. They are deeply grounded in Marxism; in fact, Mao Tze-tung is regarded today throughout the Soviet world as the most profound Marxist philosopher in the world.

Why should these men choose another road? What advantage could it be for them? What could they possibly gain? But even more significantly, how can they reconcile their beliefs with another road? The Western business man seems always to believe that every man has his price, that few men or perhaps only insane men take positions that do not make sense to business men. They do not seem ever to grasp that some men live as they do and act as they do because they believe it to be the true way.

Once we grasp that, we could understand our peril the better.

That Body of Yours

GETTING UP AFTER HERNIA OPERATION

We have written before of the beneficial results from early ambulation (getting up and about) after operations, but, unfortunately, there is one type of operation—hernioplasty, which is the surgical cure of hernia—after which many physicians are still rather unwilling to try this early ambulation. They feel that such a program may delay healing of the wound and therefore increase the chances of the hernia occurring again. Some also feel that the lines of "stress and strain" are peculiarly different in this area of the body as compared with the adjoining areas of the upper part of the wall of the abdomen.

However, in a series of cases studied by Drs. Palumbo, Paul, and Mighell, with careful follow-up examinations, it was found that there was practically no difference in the number of cases of the hernia reappearing in those who were allowed up early after operation as compared with those who were not allowed up until later. To be exact, in 873 cases, the patients were allowed up on the first day, and in 363 cases they were not allowed up until between the seventh and fourteenth day after operation. The hernia came back again in 1.2 per cent of the cases allowed up early and in 1.3 per cent of those not allowed up until later. Of course, in cases where the surgeon is not experience in this type of operation, the hernia may recur more often.

Just what are the advantages to be found in early ambulation? Perhaps the most important advantage is that it reduces the number of complications which may occur in the stomach and intestinal tract, and in the lungs, heart and blood vessels. The complication rate was only 5.7 per cent in early ambulation as compared with 19.4 per cent in late ambulation.

We are reminded that aside from the advantages of safety and reduction in the number of complications, it is very encouraging to the patient to be up and about, reduces the time he has to stay in hospital, reduces the cost of his medical expenses, and allows him back to work sooner. I have a surgeon friend who underwent an operation for hernia on a Monday morning and drove his car home from the hospital on the following Saturday afternoon. There is the added fact that hospital beds are not held so long and so are available for other patients sooner.

These good results in such a large number of patients should encourage us to follow along should our surgeon advise our getting up and about quite soon after operation.

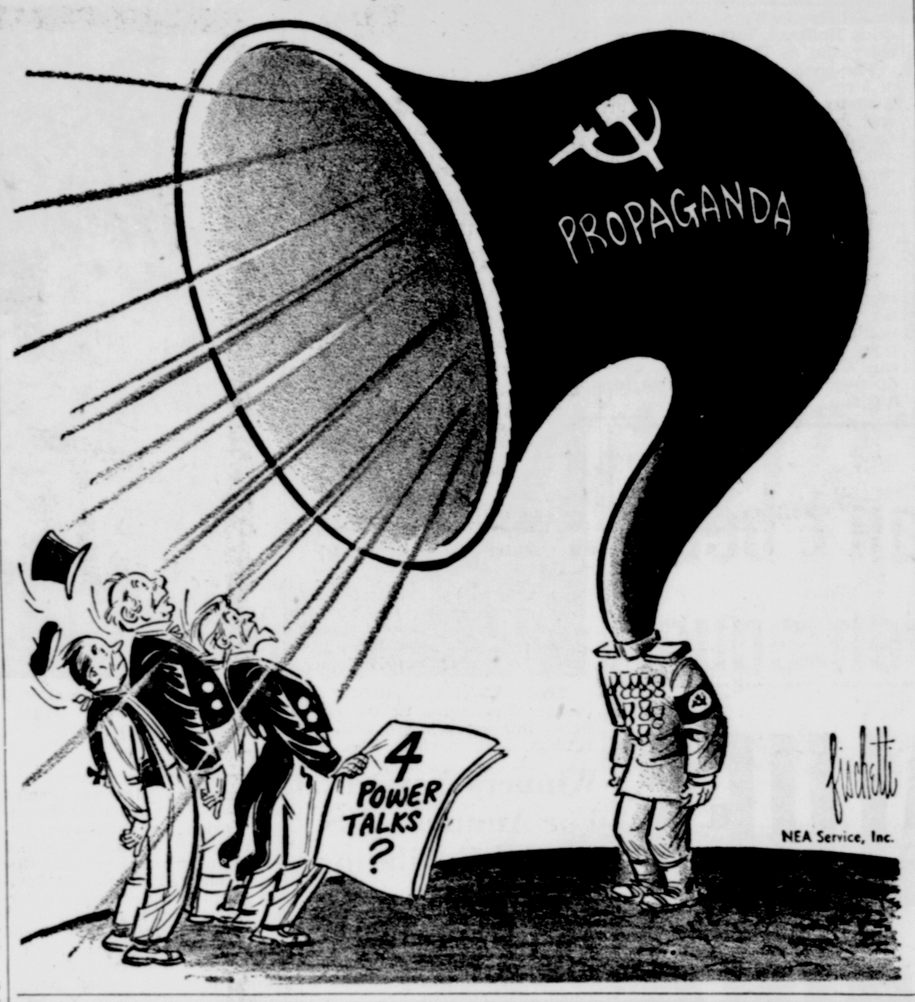
"Just Say When and Where"



Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — There will be cheering and groans from both consumer and business types over the ten major recommendations of Attorney General Herbert Brownell's 61-man National Committee to study the antitrust laws.

Its 394-page report has just been filed after 18 months of preparation by numerous work groups of professors and antitrust lawyers. Its recommendations are almost impossible to find. But advance orders from judges, attorneys and students indicate the report will become a legal best seller.

Judge Stanley M. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the Department of Justice Antitrust Division and co-chairman of the committee of 61, says that its recommendations for ten law changes and 50 out of 60 administrative procedures changes will materially strengthen antitrust law enforcement.

Louis B. Schwartz, professor of law at University of Pennsylvania, in a general dissent at the end of the report, says that the majority view "would weaken the antitrust laws in a number of respects, and, even more important, it fails to adopt necessary measures for strengthening the law so as to create a truly competitive economy in the country."

BETWEEN THESE TWO extremes, anyone can take his pick. As a matter of fact, that's what many of the 61 members do. It is of course impossible to get 61 lawyers to agree on anything. This report is liberally larded with dissents.

Judge Barnes himself, the U. S. government's chief antitrust enforcement officer, admits that he dissented from majority views in many instances. He won't say where. There is no box score on who favored what.

Principal architect of the report is S. Chesterfield Oppenheim, professor of law at University of Michigan, the committee's other co-chairman. With an admitted 27 years' experience in antitrust law, Professor Oppenheim has done considerable lecturing and writing for antitrust law reform.

The basic principle of the report, however, is that: "Although many forces and other government policies have materially promoted our creative American economy, we believe the antitrust laws remain one of the most important."

In other words, the antitrust laws are here to stay. The committee did not set out deliberately to wreck them, as it was at first feared they might do.

THE REPORT ITSELF IS not fact-finding but opinion. It has no official standing as government policy. It is an advisory report to the attorney general. He can write a report of his own to the President, agreeing or disagreeing with committee recommendations.

It will then be up to the President to recommend to Congress what changes he thinks should be made in antitrust law. What Congress will do about it is anybody's guess, but it is now considering some reforms of its own.

The committee recommended no changes in the basic sections of the 65-year-old Sherman law. No changes were recommended on the law governing mergers nor on the patent provisions of antitrust law.

The 61 experts completely passed the buck by recommending to Congress that it investigate labor union practices that might lead to restraint of trade. This was apparently too hot a potato to handle below the law-making level.

RECOMMENDATIONS TO repeal the Miller-Tydings "Fair Trade" law and the McGuire amendment which forces the charging of fixed retail prices on all distributors will be hailed by consumers, but damned by producers and many dealers.

Authorizing the Attorney General to issue a "civil investigative demand" for the production of documents in antitrust case examinations, before grand jury probes, is a brand-new search warrant idea in American law.

Fixing antitrust statute of limitations at four years is an average view of the committee. Changing of penalties should meet little opposition. This covers ending of compulsory treble damages, and increasing of criminal penalty maximum from $5000 to $10,000.

The House of Representatives has just voted to increase this maximum penalty to $50,000, which makes the committee's recommendation rather mild.

Defense of Quemoy by United States Called Valid Under International Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4—Time was when the mention of the phrase "international law" meant certain, well defined principles of international conduct which history and custom had placed in a recognized code.

But today the words "international law" can be bandied about in public and few people question their real meaning in given situations. This may be due to unfamiliarity with the precedents or to forgetfulness.

Thus, in the new resolution backed by several Democratic Senators who now want to reverse the decision taken by an overwhelming majority of both Houses recently, which gave the President authority to defend Formosa and related areas, there occurs this language:

"WHEREAS the United States under international law has no territorial rights or claims to the Matsu and Quemoy Islands; and whereas a military defense of said islands by the United States subjects the United States to the charge of acts of aggression and involvement in a Chinese civil war. . . ."

But, under international law, the Republic of China is today the recognized government, and there is no involvement in a civil war from a legal standpoint if the United States continues to recognize the same government. To honor the request of a constituted government for military aid in resisting rebellion is a well established principle of international law and, so far as the United States government is concerned, the Nationalist government is the constituted government.

IN GREECE for example, the United States rendered military assistance to the constituted government a few years ago.

Entirely apart from the principle of extending military aid to a recognized government, there are other facts which would legalize the action of the United States in defending the Quemoy and Matsu Islands. Thus, the government of Red China took part in a major war in Korea against the United States and allied forces. An armistice now has been signed, but an armistice is not a treaty of peace. It continues from the viewpoint of international law the legal conditions of a state of war which existed as against Red China before the armistice was signed.

THIS ARMISTICE, moreover, has been repeatedly violated by the Red Chinese. Americans captured during the war have not been returned as required by that agreement.

Yet so far afield have some American writers gone in their anxiety to appease the Red Chinese that the United States government now is blatantly accused of having a "guilty conscience" in ordering the release of the seventy-six Chinese students held in America during the Korean War.

One editorial in an eastern newspaper concedes that "it would have been foolhardy to have permitted persons who could aid the Chinese to return during the fighting" in Korea but argues that "after the fighting ceased, there was no moral or legal justification for retaining them."

SINCE WHEN does an armistice which stops the fighting also end the legal rights of two belligerents? The United States has every right to retain any foreign nationals during a state of war and, when an armistice comes, to return only those specified in the agreement. It is for a peace treaty, when duly signed and ratified, to say what disposition should be made of the foreign nationals and their property seized during a war. For, after all, it was a war in Korea — more than 140,000 Americans were killled or wounded in it.

The American government, therefore, cannot be rightly accused of having a sense of guilt but rather must be commended for doing a generous thing—not required by international law or the terms of the armistice—in giving up custody of the Red Chinese students. For they possess information about atomic physics and technical skills acquired during their stay in this country which could be used against American troops if the existing armistice breaks down and the Korean war is resumed. Also, since when does a government formally declared an "aggressor" by the United Nations, and still unpunished, acquire "rights" under international law?

Thermal Barrier Tests

College Park, Md. (AP)—University of Maryland scientists are seeking the answers to the problem of the "thermal barrier" in a specially constructed tube 12 feet long. In the tube, Prof. Edward L. Resler and his associates have been able to produce shock waves such as those that would be generated by a projectile traveling 30,400 miles per hour. The "thermal barrier" is the term applied to the problem of heat caused by friction with the air at speed of more than five times that of sound when metals begin to melt. Although the project is one of pure research, Dr. Resler believes it will produce information of value to missile and aircraft designers. A speed of 25,000 miles per hour is needed for any missile to escape from the earth's gravitation.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

President Eisenhower recently hollered up a program of highway construction to lace the country with freight routes, suitable for passengers, too, east to west, north to south and this way and that. The automobile industry would like that, but the immediate beneficiaries would be the two unions which would have "jurisdiction" over the construction work. These are the hodcarriers and common laborers and the operating engineers, two of the worst gangs of leg-breakers and all-around terrorists in the whole racket, with a majestic overall record of extortion from contractors and workers. The contractors are versatile porch-climbers themselves so perish the thought that they have been innocent victims of nefarious doing by their partners in crime. On government jobs, contractors get their heads together and take turns bidding low, and it is uniform practice, barring exceptions to prove a melancholy rule, to add a standard proportion of union graft to the ultimate bill against the taxpayers. Then the contractors get ten percent of the amount extorted on top of their normal plus. Their condition as victims of sinful greed is relieved by built-in compensations.

The Teamsters' Union would come next. We would build a magnificent tracery of avenues, with clover-leaves and over and underpasses and de luxe doggeries and 'burger huts at convenient intervals. Then we would hand over to Dave Beck and the Teamsters' Union, a charter authorizing the union to drive all the commerce off the entire system at will. If the construction is going to cost us $101 billion, as I have read it will, we would be wise to figure on ten billion, one hundred million as graft. Thereafter, the Teamsters' Union would dominate these highways like the barons on the Rhine. These fellows hold "book-checks" at the pull-up stations, frisking drivers to make sure that they have paid their tribute for permission to drive on our public thoroughfares, but with a roguish pretense that they are only looking out for their safety by forcing weary men to snooze, inspecting their air pressure and so forth. They are very bold and growing more so, thanks in large part to ballyhoo published in slick national magazines and metropolitan Sunday sections depicting Beck as a splendid character and a labor statesman.

Beck is a strong-arm unioneer who introduced the word "goon" to our language by throwing cordons of thugs around premises in Seattle which he had declared out of bounds for reasons of his own. A "goon" was a dehumanized monster, which, at the time, was having a season in a comic strip local circulation. Later, Beck scrubbed his neck, but his character has not changed and if he gets jurisdiction over this maze of concrete roads, the people will have to fight him for possession. If that system would increase the motor freight traffic tenfold, it would increase Beck's revenues and his monopoly that much or more. There would be persuasive reasons for all the drivers, helpers, loaders and warehousemen to join and pay dues and incidentals plus the "welfare" insurance tribute which is now compulsory.

Of course the increasing traffic will require more and better highways, but the several states should take the responsibility and not the national government.

Ike got an unexpected rebuff from some of the governors when he pulled his plan on them, but Mr. Ike is a stranger around here. He knows little about our system of government and the practical realities of life under a regime which accepts rackets as familiar incidentals. After the experience of Roosevelt's "wah effawt" with out-of-town talent holding exclusive licenses to loot, these governors naturally bethought themselves of their local experts. Does Illinois have to import dynamiters from New York? Must Arkansas yield to murderers from St. Louis? The governors also realized that this grand undertaking would deprive state and local machines of opportunities vital to the life of any normal pack of parasites.

The whole idea is beautiful by itself. But for years railroad men have been pointing out that thousands of miles of roadbed, right-of-way, tracks and communication equipment are used scarcely one minute out of a hundred. The only problem is rates. And the pathetic fact always bobs up that a nation with a great passel of mathetmaticians so brilliant that they can't tell right from wrong cannot figure out a system of freight rates which would enable the railroads to draw anything like the number of customers which they can handle.

Grand Central Terminal in New York is an absurd hulk consisting of 99 per cent waste space. It is strictly a passenger station and Central doesn't carry enough passengers in and out of New York to occupy its capacity for 15 minutes a day. Anyway, long-haul passenger traffic is going by air in increasing numbers and freight, too, will be less and less earthbound.

Fresh Orange Blitz Torte Easter Dessert Special

SPECIAL DESSERT for your Easter dinner? Try this fresh orange blitz torte.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

We traveled through Florida recently from Miami on the east coast to Tampa on the west coast. All around Lakeland (near Tampa) we drove slowly through miles of orange groves. The trees were in bloom and the air had the fragrance of many weddings.

With Easter in mind, we decided in that lovely atmosphere to create a special dessert using fresh oranges reminiscent of those blossoming in Florida groves.

Fresh Orange Blitz Torte
(Yield: 6-8 servings)

One and one-third cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ⅓ cup shortening, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 4 eggs, separated, ⅓ cup milk, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar, ¾ cup sugar, 6 medium fresh oranges, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, 1 tablespoon sugar (optional).

Sift first three ingredients together (set aside for later use). Cream shortening, ½ cup sugar and orange rind together until fluffy. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time. Add flour mixture alternately with milk. Line bottoms of two lightly greased, round 8-inch layer cake pans with waxed paper. Grease papers lightly. (Do not grease sides of pans). Divide batter evenly between the 2 pans. Spread uniformly over the bottoms. Add cream of tartar to egg whites. Beat until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in the ¾ cup sugar. Spread uniformly over the unbaked batter.

Bake 25 minutes in a preheated very slow oven (250 degrees F.). Increase heat to moderate (350 degrees F.). Bake 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Cool. (Meringue will settle, but this is as it should be). Remove from pan. Before serving arrange fresh orange slices or sections and whipped cream (sweetened cream with 1 tablespoon sugar if desired) between layers and over the top in shortcake fashion.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Saute of pork chops and lima beans, whipped potatoes, rye bread, butter or margarine, hearts of lettuce, dressing, fresh orange blitz torte, coffee, tea, milk.

It's a bit ambitious to get to game on the North-South cards in today's hand, but every expert has been in many worse contracts. If you happen to bid five clubs, your contract depends on a finesse for the king of clubs. If you get to game in no-trump, instead, you may be able to survive even if you lose the club finesse.

Let's see how you would go about playing the hand at three no-trump. West leads the five of spades, and you see the dummy. You note the fact that the diamonds are rather dangerous, but you keep a poker face and play a low spade from the dummy.

East plays the ten, and you take the trick with the jack of spades and enter dummy with a heart in order to take the club finesse.

West naturally wins with the king of clubs, and here's where you have to use all your skill. You have to hypnotize West into leading another spade when he has already seen that he can get nowhere with that suit.

If you're not much good at hypnotism, don't give up in despair. If you make a better play at the first trick, you won't need the razzle-dazzle stuff.

When East plays the ten of spades on the first trick, win with the king—not with the jack. This will give West the impression that his spades are a serious threat to the contract. When West later wins a trick with the king of clubs, he will lead another spade, and all is then well.

What if you never get a trick with the jack of spades? For example, suppose the club finesse succeeds and West doesn't get a chance to lead a second spade. You have the contract then without the jack of spades: You have five clubs, three hearts and two spades.

Cornell Company Acquires Tug

C. W. Spangenberger, president of the Cornell Steamboat Company, announces that the company has purchased the diesel tugboat Betty from the Crescent Towing & Salvage Company of New Orleans, La.

THE TUG will be renamed when it is delivered in New York, which will be in about 10 days. This will bring the company's fleet to a total of nine tugs which are engaged in hauling crushed and broken stone, brick and many other commodities on the Hudson river.

The Betty is all steel construction and is 75.9 feet long, 23 feet wide and 8 foot draft. She has a gross tonnage of 138 and is powered with a Superior diesel 600 horsepower engine. She was built for the United States Government at the Equitable Shipbuilding Yard at New Orleans in 1940. As compared with tug operations in this vicinity, the Betty has seen little use.

William Hornbeck, port engineer for the Cornell Steamboat Company, accompanied Spangenberger on the trip.

Opening lead—♠ 5

East plays the ten, and you take the trick with the jack of spades and enter dummy with a heart in order to take the club finesse.

West naturally wins with the king of clubs, and here's where you have to use all your skill. You have to hypnotize West into leading another spade when he has already seen that he can get nowhere with that suit.

If you're not much good at hypnotism, don't give up in despair. If you make a better play at the first trick, you won't need the razzle-dazzle stuff.

When East plays the ten of spades on the first trick, win with the king—not with the jack. This will give West the impression that his spades are a serious threat to the contract. When West later wins a trick with the king of clubs, he will lead another spade, and all is then well.

What if you never get a trick with the jack of spades? For example, suppose the club finesse succeeds and West doesn't get a chance to lead a second spade. You have the contract then without the jack of spades: You have five clubs, three hearts and two spades.

Cornell Company Acquires Tug

C. W. Spangenberger, president of the Cornell Steamboat Company, announces that the company has purchased the diesel tugboat Betty from the Crescent Towing & Salvage Company of New Orleans, La.

THE TUG will be renamed when it is delivered in New York, which will be in about 10 days. This will bring the company's fleet to a total of nine tugs which are engaged in hauling crushed and broken stone, brick and many other commodities on the Hudson river.

The Betty is all steel construction and is 75.9 feet long, 23 feet wide and 8 foot draft. She has a gross tonnage of 138 and is powered with a Superior diesel 600 horsepower engine. She was built for the United States Government at the Equitable Shipbuilding Yard at New Orleans in 1940. As compared with tug operations in this vicinity, the Betty has seen little use.

William Hornbeck, port engineer for the Cornell Steamboat Company, accompanied Spangenberger on the trip.

Service, Seder Mark Passover Start Wednesday

The holiday of Passover will be ushered in locally with a congregational service at Temple Emanuel Wednesday at 6:30 p. m., followed by a Seder at Tina's Restaurant, 42 Abeel street.

According to Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, concluding Passover services are planned at Temple Emanuel Tuesday, April 12, at 7:45 p. m. when Rabbi Bloom will preach on the theme, Are Our Liberties Endangered?

The Passover and Yizkor service will take place Wednesday, April 13.

The Commission on Information About Judaism has released the following concerning the Passover:

The story of the deliverance of the ancient Israelites from Egyptian bondage will be rehearsed in Jewish homes and synagogues throughout the world, as the holiday of Passover is ushered in at sunset, Wednesday, April 6.

JEWISH FAMILIES will gather around festive boards on Passover Eve for the holiday service and meal, known as the Seder. Along with prayers and songs of thanksgiving, the head of the household will re-tell how the Jews toiled for Pharaoh, how Moses grew up in the palace but could not brook the serfdom of his people and how he led the revolt against Egypt and ultimately liberated his people.

In honor of history's first mass protest against human slavery, Jews will repair to their sanctuaries and recite special supplications and take part in a special litury glorifying man's right to be free. This will be the subject of rabbinical discourses at synagogue services.

Associated with the celebration of Passover is the unleavened bread, or matso, symbolizing the "bread of affliction." Eating it during Passover is supposed to remind the Jew of slavery's bitterness and his divine duties to aid in the uplift of human beings. Traditional Jews observe Passover for eight days while the liberal Jews observe it seven days.

Big Salk Supplies Will Be Made By Drug Firms

New York, April 5 (AP) — A polio authority expects drug firms to make enough Salk vaccine before June 30 to immunize 30 million persons, nearly twice as many as earlier estimates.

Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said yesterday that pharmaceutical companies have raised production goals above the 18 million immunizations originally planned.

He said this additional production should satisfy the demand for vaccine and keep shortages from developing.

"Unfortunately there has been a tendency recently to build up scares about shortages that I don't believe are going to materialize," he commented.

The official report on whether the vaccine is effective is to be made April 12 on the basis of last year's test innoculations on nearly two million children.

If this report indicates that the vaccine provides protection against crippling polio, Van Riper said, there "might be a day or two" of rush on supplies.

"But the situation will adjust quickly," he added.

THE POLIO FOUNDATION has ordered enough vaccine for nine million persons and will use it to inoculate mostly first and second-grade children throughout the country. Remaining supplies will be distributed through drug stores to doctors for private use.

Van Riper said polio authorities hope special consideration will be given to children in age groups most likely to be stricken.

There are 61 million Americans under 21 years of age, the group considered to be in the polio danger zone. Most susceptible years within this group are from 5 to 8.

Polio Foundation officials believe that doctors, through informal agreements and codes, can best see to it that "those who are most needful of the vaccine get it."

AN EXAMPLE of such self-policing was a priority system set up yesterday by the American Academy of Pediatrics in Detroit.

With the national foundation taking care of highly susceptible first and second graders, the AAP designated three other groups as deserving the highest priority from private doctors. These are pre-first graders over 1 years of age, children in grades 3 through 8, and pregnant women.

The academy said local communities should be advised of "the need for providing some method whereby the vaccine can be made available for those in the priority groups but unable to pay."

Vaccine supplies will be "far short of anticipated demand," the academy said. "There is therefore need for guidance in the most effective use of commercial vaccine that is available."

A Polio Foundation spokesman here said that if the vaccine proves successful, it will be in much better supply than is usual in the case of a new medical substance.

This is because the foundation and drug firms took a chance on the possibility that the vaccine will be worthwhile and decided to "risk an awful lot of money" in advance production.

Hoover Says Cities Fail to Keep Pace

Washington, April 5 (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today the nation's large cities have not increased their police strength to keep pace with a higher crime rate.

Noting that statistics show populated areas to be the favorite hunting ground of criminals, Hoover said:

"The average 1.5 police employes per 1,000 inhabitants in the 10,000 to 25,000 (population) category increases to only 1.7 in cities with a maximum of 250,000, and to 2.3 in those over that population figure.

"Assuredly, police agencies must have sufficient forces to guarantee the welfare of the citizens under their jurisdiction. certainly it is sound strategy to take up the challenge presented by the growing problem in the major cities of the country."

Hoover expressed his views in a signed editorial in the FBI Law Enforcement bulletin, which is circulated to police agencies throughout the country.

Tillson Teeners Give $44.60 to Ulster Heart Fund

The Ulster County Heart Chapter was the recipient last week of $44.60 from the treasury of a group of teenagers of Tillson known as the Tillson Heirs.

This organization has been operating under the guidance of Mrs. Daniel McMonagle of Tillson for some time, carrying on an organized program of work and play in the community. Recently they sponsored a dance and planned half of the proceeds for "Heart" and its program in Ulster county.

Because of other commitments the club found it necessary to disband for the present and voted its entire treasury to the Heart fund.

The 1955 Heart Fund of Ulster county has now reached a total of $9,200 with responses to the letter appeal still being received. Memoriam contributions — paying thoughtful tribute to deceased relatives, associates, and friends—are received and accepted the full year round by the Heart Chapter.

BAKED THE BRICK OVEN WAY FOR HAPPY EATING!

Can't Make It Go On $1,000 Month

New York, April 5 (AP)—Mrs. Anita Roddy-Eden Manville, the estranged ninth wife of Tommy Manville, says the $1,000 he gives her monthly has reduced her to living in an $8-a-week furnished room.

Mrs. Manville, 32, separated from her 60-year-old husband two years ago now wants her payments raised to $1,000 a week.

In state supreme court yesterday she testified she has been forced to sublet her apartment on fashionable Sutton Place and move into a west side room. She said she has been unable to make ends meet even with an additional $14,000 she earned through engagements in night clubs and shows.

WHEN ASKED why this was insufficient income, she said she has heavy expense, including the maintenance of a $20,000 house at Mamaroneck, where her mother, sister, brother-in-law and other relatives live.

Manville's attorney then asked what happened to $50,000 her husband gave her in 1952.

She said she used about $10,000 to furnish an apartment and take a trip to Europe. The rest, she said through her attorney, was returned to Manville.

THE MUCH-MARRIED asbestos heir has also claimed money troubles in fighting his wife's demands. He has said he is now down to his last two million dollars and claims he was forced to sell his New Rochelle, N. Y., estate, Bon Repos.

He said he got $85,000 for the big home and has bought a smaller place that cost $35,000.

Mrs. Manville testified that her husband had "hallucinations when he was drinking" and once told her "he had the power to open and shut windows with his eyes by merely looking at them."

Another time, she said, he claimed "that his English setter dog was the reincarnation of his eighth wife" who died several years ago in an auto crash.

"He doesn't talk like that when he is sober," Mrs. Manville added.

Assembly Speaker Accuses Harriman of 'Plagiarism'

Albany, April 5 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck says the Republican-controlled Legislature approved all the major items in the GOP program "and adopted advances in numerous other fields."

Heck, in a statement last night, accused Gov. Harriman of attempting "political plagiarism" by claiming credit for part of the Legislature's record in the session that ended Saturday.

The Democratic governor declared Sunday that his administration had prodded the Republicans to adopt progressive legislation.

"Gov. Harriman's attempt to claim credit for accomplishments of the Republican majority...in the fields of education, employment, unemployment benefits, rent control, housing, prevention and correction of juvenile delinquency and highways is amusing," the Republican speaker said.

HECK DESCRIBED the governor's successful proposal to postpone compulsory safety inspection of automobiles as an admission of the "inability of his appointees to cope with the administrative problems."

The inspection deadline was delayed until Dec. 1, 1956. It had been Sept. 1, 1955.

The "attempts of political plargiarism," Heck continued, extended to legislation providing a central administrative agency for the state's courts and increasing the power of New York city to tax and borrow.

"These are some but by no means all of the illustrations of Republican legislation for which Gov. Harriman is claiming part or full credit," the speaker stated.

Heck said some measures enacted during the 1955 session were recommended by study groups appointed during the Republican administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

IN THIS CATEGORY he listed increase of unemployment benefits and coverage, creation of a privately financed business development corporation, submission to the voters of a 750-million-dollar highway bond for another year of the present level of state aid to schools.

Harriman's proposal that the Legislature urge Congress to establish a federal minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, Heck maintained, was the governor's "major contribution to the field of improved employment and labor relations." The Legislature rejected it. Heck commented:

"In the sober judgment of those who have analyzed his other proposals, they would have lessened rather than increased stability of employment and would have increased the migration of employers from New York state."

THE SPEAKER RECALLED that Harriman had urged legislation to protect the public from the "financially irresponsible motorist." Heck said Harriman's "sole contribution" was the expression of "pious hopes that such legislation be adopted."

In another development, Harriman's counsel said it was "very unlikely" that there would be a special session of the Legislature "unless some special situation should come up."

Daniel Gutman indicated in a radio interview (WGY, Schenectady) that the administration did not intend to call a special session in an attempt to force enactment of the parts of its program that were rejected during the regular session.

Assembly Speaker Accuses Harriman of 'Plagiarism'

Albany, April 5 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck says the Republican-controlled Legislature approved all the major items in the GOP program "and adopted advances in numerous other fields."

Heck, in a statement last night, accused Gov. Harriman of attempting "political plagiarism" by claiming credit for part of the Legislature's record in the session that ended Saturday.

The Democratic governor declared Sunday that his administration had prodded the Republicans to adopt progressive legislation.

"Gov. Harriman's attempt to claim credit for accomplishments of the Republican majority...in the fields of education, employment, unemployment benefits, rent control, housing, prevention and correction of juvenile delinquency and highways is amusing," the Republican speaker said.

HECK DESCRIBED the governor's successful proposal to postpone compulsory safety inspection of automobiles as an admission of the "inability of his appointees to cope with the administrative problems."

The inspection deadline was delayed until Dec. 1, 1956. It had been Sept. 1, 1955.

The "attempts of political plargiarism," Heck continued, extended to legislation providing a central administrative agency for the state's courts and increasing the power of New York city to tax and borrow.

"These are some but by no means all of the illustrations of Republican legislation for which Gov. Harriman is claiming part or full credit," the speaker stated.

Heck said some measures enacted during the 1955 session were recommended by study groups appointed during the Republican administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

IN THIS CATEGORY he listed increase of unemployment benefits and coverage, creation of a privately financed business development corporation, submission to the voters of a 750-million-dollar highway bond for another year of the present level of state aid to schools.

Harriman's proposal that the Legislature urge Congress to establish a federal minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, Heck maintained, was the governor's "major contribution to the field of improved employment and labor relations." The Legislature rejected it. Heck commented:

"In the sober judgment of those who have analyzed his other proposals, they would have lessened rather than increased stability of employment and would have increased the migration of employers from New York state."

THE SPEAKER RECALLED that Harriman had urged legislation to protect the public from the "financially irresponsible motorist." Heck said Harriman's "sole contribution" was the expression of "pious hopes that such legislation be adopted."

In another development, Harriman's counsel said it was "very unlikely" that there would be a special session of the Legislature "unless some special situation should come up."

Daniel Gutman indicated in a radio interview (WGY, Schenectady) that the administration did not intend to call a special session in an attempt to force enactment of the parts of its program that were rejected during the regular session.

BOYCOTT

This word, which has taken on the popular meaning of a taboo or sanction placed on dealing with a certain person or country, came into the language as a reference to an Irish landlord, Captain Boycott. His tenants hated him and would not help with the harvest, so he hired others. As a counter measure, the tenants refused to associate with Boycott or anyone who dealt with him.

Only Way to Stop Cancer: It's YOUR Responsibility

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—The most immediate hope of reducing the cancer mortality doesn't lie with science. It lies with you.

"How can I cut down the death rate of cancer?" you ask. Simply by taking periodic tests to see if you have cancer.

"But why should I go to all that trouble?" most people inquire. "If I had cancer, wouldn't I at least suspect it?"

In many instances, yes; in many, no. Cancer has its warning signals, but often they are masked. A thorough physical checkup, however, will usually disclose them.

But are such physical examinations statistically worthwhile for people who have no real reason to suspect they have cancer? The answer to that, of course, lies strictly with the individual. How important is it to him to be sure he is free of cancer?

HERE ARE A FEW figures from the American Cancer Society that might affect your own decision:

There will be about a half a million new cases of cancer in the United States this year, and some 700,000 people will be under treatment for cancer.

During the year 235,000 Americans will die of cancer, or about one every two minutes.

But—note this figure—every seven minutes last year an American died of cancer who might have been saved if properly treated in time. The estimated needless deaths for 1954 —75,000.

AN EQUAL NUMBER — one every seven minutes, 75,000 for the year—were probably saved because treatment did begin in time. (There are now an estimated 400,000 living Americans saved from cancer who have remained free of further symptoms at least five years.)

The situation now: Of every four persons stricken with cancer, two will die because science cannot yet cure them, one will undergo treatment and survive, one will die who could have been saved—if treated in time.

Those are the bald inescapable odds. But what are your chances of being stricken with cancer?

IRONICALLY, as medical men learn to quell other diseases, your chances of getting cancer increase. They used to be one out of five. The American Cancer Society this year says they are now one out of four.

Here are a few of its estimates, based on the current situation:

More than 40 million Americans now living will develop cancer, 24 million will die of it.

Cancer will strike in two of every three families.

It isn't merely a disease of old age, as many people still believe. Half the cancer deaths are in people under 65 years of age. Cancer kills more children between 3 and 15 years old than any other disease.

There are about 250 cancer detection clinics in America where for a payment of around $20 you can find out in two hours whether you have any cancer symptoms.

CANCER EXPERTS would like to make every physician's office a cancer detection center. But many overworked doctors naturally are somewhat reluctant to take the time to run a person who looks and feels healthy through an exhaustive physical examination. They feel they should concentrate on patients who are obviously ill.

The remorseless fact still remains: Those alert to the danger of cancer, who discover it in time, are most likely to survive.

One proof of this lies with surgeons. They know the perils of overlooked cancer—and the result is that the death rate of cancer among surgeons is only 66 per cent of that among the general population.

The same thing is true of women. Formerly, more women than men died of cancer. But women now are more aware of the menace of cancer, more willing to face up to it and do something about it.

This is probably the chief reason that since 1949 fewer women than men have died of cancer.

The biggest hope of cutting cancer deaths as of now—is you. What are you going to do about it?"

(Tomorrow: What it's like to take a cancer test.)

REFUSING "SPECIALTY" DISH RECIPE

The following question comes from a hostess: "Could it be considered rude to refuse to give a certain recipe to someone who asks for it? I have a special recipe for a certain dish which I like to serve when I give a dinner party. I am not an expert cook, but I do make this dish extremely well and everyone seems to like it very much. Several of my friends have hinted for this recipe which I promptly ignored, but I'm afraid some day soon I will be asked point blank for it. How can I refuse without causing hurt feelings?"

It would not be rude to explain politely that you never have given that particular recipe to anyone as it is a specialty of yours and that if you gave it to any one you would have to give it to others and it would then no longer be a specialty of your house.

Acknowledging A Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Post: Shouldn't some acknowledgement be made of a wedding announcement. Even if this does not require the sending of a present, shouldn't a message of congratulations at least be sent to the wedding couple? It seems to me very rude to ignore the announcement completely. What do you say about this?

Answer: An announcement merely informs a person that a wedding has taken place and requires no acknowledgement. On the other hand, should the announcement come from a personal friend who had no wedding to speak of, you would naturally want to send a present or at lease a message of good wishes.

Should She Take A Present?

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend's aunt, whom I have never met, has invited us both to Sunday dinner at her house. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to take her something, such as a box of candy or some flowers. Please advise me as I do want to make a good impression.

Answer: No present is necessary or expected but you could ask your boy friend what to do as he would know whether it would please her, or not, to have you take one.

How should the young men of a small wedding party be dressed? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-8, describes small weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G. New York 19, N. Y.

Steinkuller Is Guest Speaker

Paul F. Steinkuller, personnel-manager for the Kingston IBM plant, was a guest speaker Monday evening at a "get acquainted" meeting of the Fair Street Reformed Church Men's Club when representatives of IBM and members of several Men's Clubs of the city were guests of the Fair Street men. Attending the meeting were about 100 guests, including a number of IBM representatives.

Also a guest of the club was Louis H. Shafer, general secretary of the YMCA, who spoke briefly on the activities of the Y. He extended to the new residents of Kingston the facilities of the organization. Raymond S. Quackenbush, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, also spoke outlining the Scout program and activities.

Informal Wear Enters Business, If Guess Is Right

New York, April 5 (AP)—Sport coats and slacks may make their all-out assault this year on that last citadel of the more formal in men's attire—the business office—if the nation's merchants are guessing right.

They are reported increasing their stocks of these items this spring, and cutting back a little on their stocks of men's regular suits.

In the men's wear trade here this is being interpreted as meaning that casual wear is creeping into every business life. It already has taken a sizeable hunk of the after-office-hours apparel trade.

A SURVEY on the competition among natural and synthetic fibers for the men't trade this year also shows more stores than a year ago are increasing their stocks of garments made from blends of wool and synthetic fabrics. A third of them are cutting back their stocks of worsteds, though maintaining stocks of tweeds and flannels. Most of the stores are ordering fewer garments with no wool in them.

These findings come from replies of 708 department and clothing stores across the nation to a questionnaire on their ordering policies for spring and summer. The survey was made by the Men's Wear Inter-Industry Council, a group of 15 associations in the apparel making, retail clothing, tailoring, hat, tie, shirt, pajama, shoe, sweater and fabric making fields.

THE MAKERS of men's suits have apparently been following something of the same pattern as the retailers. The Clothing Manufacturers Assn. of the U.S.A. reports that in the first two months of the year the output of regular-weight suits rose 15 per cent over a year ago. But the output of summer suits of less than 50 per cent wool dropped 17 per cent.

The Wool Bureau, Inc., a leading light in the Inter Industry Council, sees the survey as a sign that the trend is away from suits with no wool content. The the National Cotton Council believes the cotton suit is due for comeback this summer, citing new types of fabric and new wrinkle-resistant finishes.

The Inter-Industry Council's survey shows strong regional differences in male preferences for types of suits.

STORES IN THE NORTH, which includes the industrialized centers of the northeast and midwest, led those in the south and west in the trend toward increased stocking of sport coats and slacks.

The west and the north showed a trend toward more all-wool clothing. The blends of wool and synthetics made their best gains in the south. And in that region stores were more likely to stock all-synthetic or cotton garments.

Within the all-wool field, worsteds were more likely to be losing out at the department store than in the clothing stores, and in the south than in the west and north. In most regions department stores were more likely to stock blends than were clothing stores.

In all regions a big majority of merchants stocking all-wool suits were pricing them from $50 up. Half of the stores priced blends in the same price range, with the south carrying the fewest suits at a lower price. In the no-wool field, most stores were pricing suits under $50, with western stores the most likely to carry suits of these fabrics at a higher price.

Barn Fire

Tillson, April 5—Last Sunday morning at 10:50 o'clock, the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company was called out to extinguish a fire two blocks east of Route 32, on the property of John McCue. The fire then shot up the partition to the loft, where the contents caught on fire. Damage to the structure was not considered great, and was confined mostly to the roof. Three trucks and about 30 firemen answered the alarm. Extreme caution should be observed when burning trash on windy days, the firemen advise.

'We' Talk Merely Asserts Our Own Fear of Self-Assertion

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

As many of us know, it's no longer the fashion to say, "I want this," to a small child.

Today, Ted's mother no longer says at suppertime, "Stack your blocks now because I want them to be out of the way to set the table." Now she says, "We don't have blocks around at suppertime, do we? No, we always want to put toys away when supper's ready."

Today, it's always this We, not Ted's mother who wants him to put on his rubbers, finish his orange juice and take his medicine.

If he attends a certain kind of nursery school, his teacher may call herself We, too. We, she may tell him, want to stop wriggling in rest hour. By using this term, the young lady hopes Ted will realize that as all his friends are lying quietly on their cots, there's something peculiar in his refusal to conform.

Well, it's all right if young ladies in charge of children's "groups" want to call themselves We. But, as parents, we can't afford to so sink our own identities in this vague, anonymous, faceless We authority.

It's just a new "out" from respect for our own wishes. Just as 50 years ago, our grandparents used the Bogeyman's disapproval to make children obey, we, their enlightened posterity, use the We's disapproval to make them obey. Bogeyman or We, both represent the same old fear of an honest, "I want this."

It's always stupid for parents to play tricks on children. Sooner or later, Ted is going to realize that what "We" wants from him is really what Mother wants from him. He's going to wonder why she can't say it's what she wants straight out. And conclude that maybe she's scared to say so.

He'll be right.

This "We" talk teaches us to fear open self-assertion to our children.

That's not a happy situation. For as Ted grows, so will his power to assert his own wants. To live with him, we'll have to assert our different wants. We'll have to be able to do it, not with the uncertainty or belligerence of someone who's never done it, but with the kind, firm, easy self-assurance of the person who's used to saying, "I want this."

Sooner or later, we'll have to address Ted as an individual, talking person to person to him, not as some indifferent "We."

The We talk is not merely as enlightened as we imagine. All it's doing is to falsely protect us from the terror of open self-assertion that is the bacic problem of American parents.

REFUSING "SPECIALTY" DISH RECIPE

The following question comes from a hostess: "Could it be considered rude to refuse to give a certain recipe to someone who asks for it? I have a special recipe for a certain dish which I like to serve when I give a dinner party. I am not an expert cook, but I do make this dish extremely well and everyone seems to like it very much. Several of my friends have hinted for this recipe which I promptly ignored, but I'm afraid some day soon I will be asked point blank for it. How can I refuse without causing hurt feelings?"

It would not be rude to explain politely that you never have given that particular recipe to anyone as it is a specialty of yours and that if you gave it to any one you would have to give it to others and it would then no longer be a specialty of your house.

Acknowledging A Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Post: Shouldn't some acknowledgement be made of a wedding announcement. Even if this does not require the sending of a present, shouldn't a message of congratulations at least be sent to the wedding couple? It seems to me very rude to ignore the announcement completely. What do you say about this?

Answer: An announcement merely informs a person that a wedding has taken place and requires no acknowledgement. On the other hand, should the announcement come from a personal friend who had no wedding to speak of, you would naturally want to send a present or at lease a message of good wishes.

Should She Take A Present?

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend's aunt, whom I have never met, has invited us both to Sunday dinner at her house. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to take her something, such as a box of candy or some flowers. Please advise me as I do want to make a good impression.

Answer: No present is necessary or expected but you could ask your boy friend what to do as he would know whether it would please her, or not, to have you take one.

How should the young men of a small wedding party be dressed? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-8, describes small weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Vatican Paper Hits Argentina

Vatican City, April 5 (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano says Argentina is a totalitarian state. The Vatican newspaper made the charge in replying to Buenos Aires suggestions for an end to Roman Catholicism's favored position as the state church in Argentina.

"The church today is stricken in Argentina just because it affirms the existence of a moral law engaging all Christians," L'Osservatore declared yesterday. The editorial was its latest on the five-month fight between the Catholic Church and President Juan Peron's government.

"If we wish to be consistent, it is not enough to reform or abolish a constitution or change all the doctrinaire rules of the government," L'Osservatore continued.

"WE MUST ALSO affirm that the Peron state has its independent 'ethics' and does not tolerate other morals, including Christian morals. It must be declared that Argentina is a totalitarian state."

The L'Osservatore comment was sparked by editorials in the Buenos Aires newspapers Democracia and La Prensa suggesting the separation of church and state. Because the two papers frequently speak for Peron, observers believe their stand might signal a government move to change the constitution when the Argentine Congress meets next month.

The trouble between the church and Peron's government came out in the open last fall following announcement of plans by some religious elements to form a new Christian democratic party.

Three Pilots Die In Crash of Plane

Ronkonkoma, April 5 (AP) — Three United Airlines pilots were killed yesterday when a four-engine DC6 airliner crashed and burned on a routine check flight.

The plane, which carried no passengers, had just taken off from MacArthur Airport near here and was barely 150 feet from the ground when it swerved into the scrubby underbrush, observers reported. There was no immediate explanation of the crash.

The three veteran pilots killed were Henry Dozier, 40, of Montclair, N. J.; Stanley C. Hoyt, 45, of Hicksville, and Vernis H. Webb, 35, of New York.

The three were on a test flight which the airline requires pilots to make every six months.

FORMER AREA RESIDENT Herb Glass, left, is visited by Fess Parker, Walt Disney's rifleman of the Davy Crockett TV series, during the 84th annual meeting of the National Rifle Association in Washington, D.C., on Friday. Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Glass of the Spillway Road, who now makes his home in Bullville, is a well-known gun collector.

Pat's Attorney to Have Talk About Taxes

New York, April 5 (AP)—Counsel for Pat Ward, star witness for the prosecution at the Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke vice trial, says she is scheduled to discuss "a certain tax matter" at the internal revenue office next Monday.

The lawyer, Stanley Nussbaum, said yesterday he will ask for a 10-day postponement of the order to appear.

Miss Ward, 21, testified at the trial that she gave Jelke $10,000 to $15,000 of her earnings as a call girl.

When requested by Defense Counsel George Washington Herz, she testified she did not file an income tax return for 1951 or 1952—years involved in the vice charges.

Jelke, 25-year-old heir to a margarine fortune, was convicted last Friday on compulsory prostitution charges involving Miss Ward and Marguerite Cordova, 26. He is to be sentenced April 28.

Youthful Robber Terrorizes Woman

New York, April 5 (AP)—A young robber broke into the 16-room Park avenue penthouse of Mrs. Oliver J. Sterling yesterday and tried to make her tell where she kept her money by beating her up.

The sound of servants on the floor below scared the youth away after about 15 minutes of terrorizing the socialite Mrs. Sterling and ransacking her bedroom. He took with him a $1,000 mink stole and $10 in cash.

Mrs. Sterling, 48, told police she had been in bed recuperating from an illness but got up when she heard a noise on the terrace outside. She said she saw the youth crash through the glass door into the bedroom, but he grabbed her before she could scream for help.

THE ROBBER bound and gagged Mrs. Sterling with neckties and then repeatedly hit her, demanding, "where's the money?" She suffered a cut lip and face and shoulder and rib bruises.

Mrs. Sterling's husband, an attorney, said the robber overlooked a number of expensive items, including jewelry and a gold cigarette case, in his search for cash.

Police theorized that the robber, whom Mrs. Sterling figured was 18 or 19, got to the 16th floor terrace by a service stairway.

Good Friday Observance

Editor, The Freeman

For the past four years an appeal has been made to all Christians of our community to observe Good Friday reverently. The God of all mankind shed His last drop of blood for man's redemption on that eventful day and out of gratitude His followers can well afford to recess from their regular appointments, pleasure or business. Our campaign to bring about a more widespread observance of the three sacred hours of Good Friday enlisted the merchants, shopkeepers, owners of taverns and other drinking places, to close from noon until 3 o'clock.

The generous response of our merchants and owners of places of business, together with the cooperation of the people has been heartening indeed and each succeeding year has shown a large increase in numbers of those who went along with the idea and participated in the observance. The effects of the campaign were very impressive for with the stoppage of business for those three hours, men and women elevated their thoughts above the material and began to think of the supernatural — began to put Christ into His proper setting on this most solemn day on the Christian calendar—meditated on the manner in which, Christ the Son of God, by His sufferings and death, wrought their redemption.

To supplement the work of the drive, posters are displayed in store windows reading: "This store will be closed from 12 noon until 3 p. m. on Good Friday in observance of the Death of Christ." These posters may be freely obtained from the undersigned.

It is to be hoped that the Christian element of the community both business and people, will again, on Good Friday of this week make an earnest effort to show the proper reverence and due respect during the three hours commemorating the death of the Savior on the cross.

Respectfully yours,

Angels-Monticello and Sicklers-Kettersons in Semi-Finals

Delivery Routs Plains, 93-69; Motors Blast Otisville, 104-69

Down to the "round of four" and with all the blue chips on the table, the Kingston basketball tournament presents an attractive doubleheader tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Opening the semi-final action at 7:45 p. m., Harry's Angels of Kingston vie against the speedy, high scoring Monticello Vets.

The game everyone has been waiting for—Sickler's Delivery Siena Indians vs. Ketterson Motors of Newburgh—is carded at 9 o'clock.

Added spice to this highly palatable basketball menu is the appearance of Big Eddie O'Connor of Manhattan in the Ketterson lineup.

O'CONNOR IS THE FORMER St. Patrick's Academy (Newburgh) star who went on to intercollegiate fame at Manhattan where this season he led the nation's college scorers in field goal percentage with a phenomenal 60.9.

The duel under the boards between O'Connor and 6-foot-11 Tom Pottenbergh of Sickler's should be worth the price of admission alone.

Kettersons also will have Mickey Burkoski who rebounded beautifully in Newburgh's 104-69 romp over Otisville last night.

MANAGER HARRY Kapreilian of Harry's Angels said last night he hoped to have Ronnie Scheffel of North Carolina State in the Angel lineup tonight.

Sickler's had Pottenburgh dominate the boards and Joe Gunderman come up with a sparkling shooting performance to drub Pine Plains, 93-69.

The Indians went ahead 26-12 at the quarter and won as they pleased. Pottenburgh had a hot hand in the first quarter (11 points) and finished with 22 points. The difference between the teams when Big Tom was operating was appalling. Tonight against O'Connor it will be different menu.

GUNDERMAN RIMMED 21 points and Dick Whyte overcame a slow start to pour 18 through the hoop for Manager Frank Koenig's tournament favorites. Bob Martin, the chunky Pine Plains guard, led both teams with 25 and Richie Moran, the speedster, hooped 21.

JAY STEFANCIN, a high school ace from Stewart Air Base via Pennsylvania, triggered Kettersons' explosive first period and half to rack up 25 points in the rout of Otisville.

Stefancin hooped 13 points in the first period and eight in the second. Center Ed Gabron canned 10 points in the first period. Mickey Burkoski hooped 15 points but more vital to the Ketterson cause was his brilliant rebounding.

Jerry Ketchum scored 16 for Otisville.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

A memorable reunion took place a few weeks ago at the swank Seminole Golf Club, which spreads haughty and majestic just north of Palm Beach.

Seminole happens to be the most exclusive golf club in America, of whom it has been said there is no whomer.

A guy we know as professional at Twaalfskill walked over to the 10th tee and put his arms around the shoulders of perhaps the greatest golfer who ever lived.

"Remember me, Ben?"

The four-time winner of the United States Open did a double-take and then, "How are you Alex?"

Did Ben Hogan remember his first U. S. Open test at Baltusrol? He certainly did and he remembered Alex Gerlak. And he reminded Alex that the date was 1936, which it was.

Hogan was virtually an unknown in these days but his intense play and swing already was beginning to attract notice. Gerlak was the scourge of the Northeastern New York PGA fairways.

"Even then Hogan had the stamp of greatness on him," Gerlak recalls. "I shall remember that occasion as one of the top thrills of my carer," says Alex.

• Chipps and Putts:

Brilliant weather of Saturday brought out the early birds in droves, with Twaalfskill and Wiltwyck both getting heavy action. . . . Twaalfskill looked like mid-season. . . . Early-bird lady foursome included Mrs. Cennith "Champ" O'Reilly, Mrs. Charles O'Reilly, Mrs. Edward Remmert and Mrs. John J. Van Gonsic. . . . Match play got under way quickly with James M. Dwyer and Lou Netter trimming Judge John M. Cashin and Abe Streifer. . . . Judge Cashin was highly impressed by reports of Judge Schirick's 81 at Hollywood Beach Country Club but said he might ask for a bill of particulars "on the other scores." Maurice Hand did something he might not repeat for the remainder of the season—he eagled the No. 7 hole at Twaalfskill.

• The Divot Diggers:

Just a reminder of a golf rule that you are going to violate many times before you store the clubs away for 1955. Every golfer in the world has violated it at one time or another, probably unconsciously. According to Rule 9, Sect. 1, you cannot ask or give advice or do anything to help the other player, unless it is your caddie, your partner or your partner's caddie. So that casual, "Whad'ya use for that shot, Joe?" is loaded with dynamite, costing loss of hole in match play merely for asking it, or two strokes in stroke (or medal) play. And if Joe tells you, he sustains the same penalty.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

A welcome returnee to the local golf scene will be Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. to Wiltwyck after his stay in Italy. . . . With Bill Stifler of Woodstock transferred to Nashville, Tenn., Wiltwyck's Bob Daley moves up to the presidency of the Catskill Mountain Golf League. . . . Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, the Twaalfskill captain who had plenty of trouble rounding up an 8-man squad in last year's league competition, suggests 4-man teams. . . . Add Ralph E. Gardner among the Kingstonians who have gazed upon the splendor of the Plantation golf course at Fort Lauderdale. . . . Plantation is second only to Seminole and has gone past Everglades (Palm Beach), La Gorce and Boca Raton. . . . Annual Father Herdegen Memorial tournament dates are the last two weekends in June. It's time to shine up the old clubs and irons and take the pledge: "On every golf shot I try this season I will keep my head down."

Masters Golf Tournament One Unknowns Don't Win

Augusta, Ga., April 5 (AP)—Since the Masters is a golf tournament that puts a premium on achievement and a strain on credibility, it isn't too hard to imagine one of the old timers like Byron Nelson or Lloyd Mangrum winning it this year.

It's even easier to believe that Sam Snead or Ben Hogan, who have copped the big prize in five of the past six years, will come back to take the honors from the youngsters who have dominated tournament golf this winter.

THIS IS A TOURNAMENT that "unknowns" just don't win. For one thing, it takes some outstanding accomplishment in golf to earn an invitation. Then the big, demanding Augusta National course can't be mastered without a lot of savvy to go with good shots.

Nelson, the picture-swinging golfer who retired from the tournament circuit at the peak of his career, could be the one to come up with his third Masters Victory. He won in 1937 and again in 1942 and he has scored consistently well here in spite of his lack of steady competition.

NELSON'S 68 WASN'T the best score turned in during two days of official practice rounds. Hogan, winner in 1951 and 1953 and loser to Snead in last year's playoff, fired an eight-under-par 64 Sunday. Snead almost duplicated that with a 65 yesterday.

A good many others have shattered par of 36-36—72 for the 6,950-yard Augusta National course.

The field of about 80—there were 65 contestants registered last night—is expected to include three two-time winners, Nelson, Hogan and Horton Smith, and one triple winner, Snead. Jimmy Demaret, the only other golfer to win the Masters three times since it was inaugurated in 1934, is recovering from a recent operation and won't be on hand.

DeMarco Signs for Basilio

New York, April 5 (AP)—Confident he can beat anyone in his class, welterweight champion Tony DeMarco has signed to defend his four-day old crown against patient Carmen Basilio in Syracuse, June 10.

"I promised to meet Basilio if I won and this is my answer," said the 23-year old Bostonian after he signed an official contract yesterday before Julius Helfand at the State Athletic Commission offices. Helfand is chairman of the commission.

"I felt at my best when I beat Johnny Saxton," said DeMarco who stopped the champion in the 14th round in Boston Friday night. "I was in the best shape I've ever been in and didn't have any trouble going the longer route.

"I've seen Basilio two or three times on television. I know he's strong and durable. But I feel I'm ready for and can beat anyone in my class."

Howe, Lindsay Vie for Record

Detroit, April 5 (AP) — Linemates Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, who have shared in 12 of the Detroit Red Wings' 17 playoff goals, both are within striking distance of the Stanley Cup scoring record.

Howe and Lindsay have tallied 11 points apiece in Detroit's five playoff games. They will get a chance to add to their totals tonight when the Red Wings meet the Montreal Canadiens in the second game of the playoff finals in Olympia Stadium.

Detroit led in the best-of-seven series, 1-0, having defeated the Canadiens 4-2 in Sunday's opener.

The record for most points in Stanley Cup playoffs is 18, set by Toe Blake of the Montreal Canadiens in 1944. Playing in nine games, Blake scored seven goals and picked up 11 assists.

McMahon's Squad Fails to Land In ABC Standings

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 5 (AP)—Another big name is scheduled to make its bid for the American Bowling Congress tournament championship today but so far the "name" teams have failed to live up to their reputation.

Junie McMahon's George London Bowling Shirts failed to crash the Big 10 Sunday and also failed to make any dents in the minor event standings yesterday. But the lesser lights produced a wholesale shakeup in the minor event standings.

PAUL KRUMSKE will bring his King Louie Bowling Shirts quintet of Chicago into town today in the wake of one of the biggest turnovers of the tournament. Seven changes were recorded, highlighted by new leaders in the doubles division.

Jack Baum and Andy Hudoba of Youngstown, Ohio, rolled a 1,270 series to unseat Ralph Moorman and William Berding, the Cincinnati tandem which had led since the second day of the tournament with a 1,260.

Baum had a 643 series and Hudoba a 627. Hudboa operates his own cigarette vending machine business in Struthers, Ohio. Baum is a heating contractor.

JOE VOROS of Canton, Ohio, accounted for two changes on the giant ABC scoreboard yesterday. The 41-year-old veteran of 21 bowling seasons picked the perfect time to spill his first 700. Shooting games of 233, 247 and 221, Voros shot into second place in the singles with a 701 series. Voros also moved into second place in the all-events standings with a 1,922 aggregate, the second 1,900 plus of the tournament. He had a 639 in his team competition and rolled 582 in the doubles.

Eddie Gerzine of Milwaukee still leads the singles and all-events with 738 and 1,938 totals, respectively.

Mathews' Bat Booms As Braves Near Home

Hits 3 Homers Against Dodgers

Now that Milwaukee's County Stadium is within hailing distance, Eddie Mathews, the Braves' muscular young man with the powerful wrists, is warming up for a robust introduction to the park's reduced confines.

With opening day just a week away, Mathews didn't have a home run to his credit until yesterday. Then the 23-year-old third baseman, who led the National League with 47 homers in '53, cut loose for three, although the Braves lost the game to Brooklyn 10-8.

MATHEWS' THREE SWATS in one game (duplicated earlier this spring by Cleveland's Larry Doby and the New York Giants' Willie Mays) must have perked up the anticipation of the genial gents who own the Braves. They went to the trouble of revamping County Stadium over the winter with just such things in mind.

The stadium last season was a rambling place — the second toughest home run park in the league. This year the Braves' owners have shortened left center and right field, lopping off 15 feet.

This should be a big boost to the Braves' long-ball hitters, who number Mathews, Joe Addock, Andy Pafko, Bobby Thomson, Hank Aaron, and a few more.

AARON CONTRIBUTED a homer to the Milwaukee attack yesterday, too, but the Brooks took it in stride, ganging up on Jim Wilson for nine runs in the first two innings. Sandy Amoros hit a pair of homers for the Brooks, who evened their spring series with the Braves at 4-all. Don Newcombe, though hit fairly hard in six innings, was the winner.

Baltimore's Orioles outhomered Pittsburgh 4-3, but the Pirates won their exhibition 9-8. Toby Atwell and George Freese hit home runs in a five-run Pittsburgh first and Frank Thomas hit one with two on as the Pirates scored four in the fourth. Bobby Young, Less Moss, Vern Stephens and Gil Coan unloaded for Baltimore.

MICKEY VERNON'S two-run homer carried a five-run Washington rally in the seventh that beat Cincinnati 8-5. Reliefer Jackie Cullum was the victim after Ed Bailey, Wally Post and Ray Jablonski had clipped Chuck Stobbs for home runs and a 5-0 Cincinnati lead after three innings. Eddie Yost and Roy Sievers also homered in Washington's fifth straight victory over the Redlegs, who now have lost 10 of their last 11.

Two three-run innings gave Boston a 9-7 victory over Philadelphia.

Cleveland beat the New York Giants 9-5 as Wally Westlake and Vic Wertz homered, Westlake's, good for three runs, came off starter Marv Grissom. Larry Jansen gave up the Wertz homer with one on. Vic, just back from Detroit where his wife came through a serious operation in fine shape, had five RBI's.

CHICAGO'S WHITE SOX paired Sandy Consuegra and Mike Fornieles, who relieved in the eighth, to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2.

The Chicago Cubs made three of their four hits good for a 2-1 triumph over Beaumont of the Texas League.

Gus Zernial hit his fifth home run in as many days as Kansas City defeated Columbia, its Sally League farm club, 7-1 with Art Ditmar and Bob Trice giving up only five hits.

Detroit whipped Atlanta of the Southern Assn. 13-4 with home runs from Ferris Fain and Fred Hatfield. Steve Gromek gave up the Crackers' runs in the first four innings.

Mickey Mantle and Andy Carey led the New York Yankees in their 11-8 decision over Chattanooga of the Southern Assn. Mantle was 3-for-3 and Carey hit three triples.

Medics Disagree On Moore

San Francisco, April 5 (AP)—Archie Moore's heart, declared "extraordinarily good" by a San Francisco specialist in contradiction of two other medical tests, takes on a Las Vegas general practitioner in another check today.

The light heavyweight champion and Manager Jack (Doc) Kearns flew yesterday to the Nevada gambling capital, site of Moore's May 2 bout with Nino Valdes.

Heartened by Dr. Meyer Friedman's unqualified endorsement of Moore's "cardio-vascular system," Doc Kearns and Moore volunteered to stand another checkup for the Nevada Athletic Commission.

Dr. Harry Fightlin, not claiming specialist stature, will make his examination today.

In Chicago Dr. William Rothman, chief Golden Gloves physician, stood by his diagnosis that Moore has an organic heart ailment. Dr. Rothman, to whom Moore went at the suggestion of sports Editor Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune, said laboratory evidence would support his finding.

Angels-Monticello and Sicklers-Kettersons in Semi-Finals

Delivery Routs Plains, 93-69; Motors Blast Otisville, 104-69

Down to the "round of four" and with all the blue chips on the table, the Kingston basketball tournament presents an attractive doubleheader tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Opening the semi-final action at 7:45 p. m., Harry's Angels of Kingston vie against the speedy, high scoring Monticello Vets.

The game everyone has been waiting for—Sickler's Delivery Siena Indians vs. Ketterson Motors of Newburgh—is carded at 9 o'clock.

Added spice to this highly palatable basketball menu is the appearance of Big Eddie O'Connor of Manhattan in the Ketterson lineup.

O'CONNOR IS THE FORMER St. Patrick's Academy (Newburgh) star who went on to intercollegiate fame at Manhattan where this season he led the nation's college scorers in field goal percentage with a phenomenal 60.9.

The duel under the boards between O'Connor and 6-foot-11 Tom Pottenbergh of Sickler's should be worth the price of admission alone.

Kettersons also will have Mickey Burkoski who rebounded beautifully in Newburgh's 104-69 romp over Otisville last night.

MANAGER HARRY Kapreilian of Harry's Angels said last night he hoped to have Ronnie Scheffel of North Carolina State in the Angel lineup tonight.

Sickler's had Pottenburgh dominate the boards and Joe Gunderman come up with a sparkling shooting performance to drub Pine Plains, 93-69.

The Indians went ahead 26-12 at the quarter and won as they pleased. Pottenburgh had a hot hand in the first quarter (11 points) and finished with 22 points. The difference between the teams when Big Tom was operating was appalling. Tonight against O'Connor it will be different menu.

GUNDERMAN RIMMED 21 points and Dick Whyte overcame a slow start to pour 18 through the hoop for Manager Frank Koenig's tournament favorites. Bob Martin, the chunky Pine Plains guard, led both teams with 25 and Richie Moran, the speedster, hooped 21.

JAY STEFANCIN, a high school ace from Stewart Air Base via Pennsylvania, triggered Kettersons' explosive first period and half to rack up 25 points in the rout of Otisville.

Stefancin hooped 13 points in the first period and eight in the second. Center Ed Gabron canned 10 points in the first period. Mickey Burkoski hooped 15 points but more vital to the Ketterson cause was his brilliant rebounding.

Jerry Ketchum scored 16 for Otisville.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

A memorable reunion took place a few weeks ago at the swank Seminole Golf Club, which spreads haughty and majestic just north of Palm Beach.

Seminole happens to be the most exclusive golf club in America, of whom it has been said there is no whomer.

A guy we know as professional at Twaalfskill walked over to the 10th tee and put his arms around the shoulders of perhaps the greatest golfer who ever lived.

"Remember me, Ben?"

The four-time winner of the United States Open did a double-take and then, "How are you Alex?"

Did Ben Hogan remember his first U. S. Open test at Baltusrol? He certainly did and he remembered Alex Gerlak. And he reminded Alex that the date was 1936, which it was.

Hogan was virtually an unknown in these days but his intense play and swing already was beginning to attract notice. Gerlak was the scourge of the Northeastern New York PGA fairways.

"Even then Hogan had the stamp of greatness on him," Gerlak recalls. "I shall remember that occasion as one of the top thrills of my carer," says Alex.

• Chipps and Putts:

Brilliant weather of Saturday brought out the early birds in droves, with Twaalfskill and Wiltwyck both getting heavy action. . . . Twaalfskill looked like mid-season. . . . Early-bird lady foursome included Mrs. Cennith "Champ" O'Reilly, Mrs. Charles O'Reilly, Mrs. Edward Remmert and Mrs. John J. Van Gonsic. . . . Match play got under way quickly with James M. Dwyer and Lou Netter trimming Judge John M. Cashin and Abe Streifer. . . . Judge Cashin was highly impressed by reports of Judge Schirick's 81 at Hollywood Beach Country Club but said he might ask for a bill of particulars "on the other scores." Maurice Hand did something he might not repeat for the remainder of the season—he eagled the No. 7 hole at Twaalfskill.

• The Divot Diggers:

Just a reminder of a golf rule that you are going to violate many times before you store the clubs away for 1955. Every golfer in the world has violated it at one time or another, probably unconsciously. According to Rule 9, Sect. 1, you cannot ask or give advice or do anything to help the other player, unless it is your caddie, your partner or your partner's caddie. So that casual, "Whad'ya use for that shot, Joe?" is loaded with dynamite, costing loss of hole in match play merely for asking it, or two strokes in stroke (or medal) play. And if Joe tells you, he sustains the same penalty.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

A welcome returnee to the local golf scene will be Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. to Wiltwyck after his stay in Italy. . . . With Bill Stifler of Woodstock transferred to Nashville, Tenn., Wiltwyck's Bob Daley moves up to the presidency of the Catskill Mountain Golf League. . . . Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, the Twaalfskill captain who had plenty of trouble rounding up an 8-man squad in last year's league competition, suggests 4-man teams. . . . Add Ralph E. Gardner among the Kingstonians who have gazed upon the splendor of the Plantation golf course at Fort Lauderdale. . . . Plantation is second only to Seminole and has gone past Everglades (Palm Beach), La Gorce and Boca Raton. . . . Annual Father Herdegen Memorial tournament dates are the last two weekends in June. It's time to shine up the old clubs and irons and take the pledge: "On every golf shot I try this season I will keep my head down."

Masters Golf Tournament One Unknowns Don't Win

Augusta, Ga., April 5 (AP)—Since the Masters is a golf tournament that puts a premium on achievement and a strain on credibility, it isn't too hard to imagine one of the old timers like Byron Nelson or Lloyd Mangrum winning it this year.

It's even easier to believe that Sam Snead or Ben Hogan, who have copped the big prize in five of the past six years, will come back to take the honors from the youngsters who have dominated tournament golf this winter.

THIS IS A TOURNAMENT that "unknowns" just don't win. For one thing, it takes some outstanding accomplishment in golf to earn an invitation. Then the big, demanding Augusta National course can't be mastered without a lot of savvy to go with good shots.

Nelson, the picture-swinging golfer who retired from the tournament circuit at the peak of his career, could be the one to come up with his third Masters Victory. He won in 1937 and again in 1942 and he has scored consistently well here in spite of his lack of steady competition.

NELSON'S 68 WASN'T the best score turned in during two days of official practice rounds. Hogan, winner in 1951 and 1953 and loser to Snead in last year's playoff, fired an eight-under-par 64 Sunday. Snead almost duplicated that with a 65 yesterday.

A good many others have shattered par of 36-36—72 for the 6,950-yard Augusta National course.

The field of about 80—there were 65 contestants registered last night—is expected to include three two-time winners, Nelson, Hogan and Horton Smith, and one triple winner, Snead. Jimmy Demaret, the only other golfer to win the Masters three times since it was inaugurated in 1934, is recovering from a recent operation and won't be on hand.

DeMarco Signs for Basilio

New York, April 5 (AP)—Confident he can beat anyone in his class, welterweight champion Tony DeMarco has signed to defend his four-day old crown against patient Carmen Basilio in Syracuse, June 10.

"I promised to meet Basilio if I won and this is my answer," said the 23-year old Bostonian after he signed an official contract yesterday before Julius Helfand at the State Athletic Commission offices. Helfand is chairman of the commission.

"I felt at my best when I beat Johnny Saxton," said DeMarco who stopped the champion in the 14th round in Boston Friday night. "I was in the best shape I've ever been in and didn't have any trouble going the longer route.

"I've seen Basilio two or three times on television. I know he's strong and durable. But I feel I'm ready for and can beat anyone in my class."

Howe, Lindsay Vie for Record

Detroit, April 5 (AP) — Linemates Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, who have shared in 12 of the Detroit Red Wings' 17 playoff goals, both are within striking distance of the Stanley Cup scoring record.

Howe and Lindsay have tallied 11 points apiece in Detroit's five playoff games. They will get a chance to add to their totals tonight when the Red Wings meet the Montreal Canadiens in the second game of the playoff finals in Olympia Stadium.

Detroit led in the best-of-seven series, 1-0, having defeated the Canadiens 4-2 in Sunday's opener.

The record for most points in Stanley Cup playoffs is 18, set by Toe Blake of the Montreal Canadiens in 1944. Playing in nine games, Blake scored seven goals and picked up 11 assists.

McMahon's Squad Fails to Land In ABC Standings

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 5 (AP)—Another big name is scheduled to make its bid for the American Bowling Congress tournament championship today but so far the "name" teams have failed to live up to their reputation.

Junie McMahon's George London Bowling Shirts failed to crash the Big 10 Sunday and also failed to make any dents in the minor event standings yesterday. But the lesser lights produced a wholesale shakeup in the minor event standings.

PAUL KRUMSKE will bring his King Louie Bowling Shirts quintet of Chicago into town today in the wake of one of the biggest turnovers of the tournament. Seven changes were recorded, highlighted by new leaders in the doubles division.

Jack Baum and Andy Hudoba of Youngstown, Ohio, rolled a 1,270 series to unseat Ralph Moorman and William Berding, the Cincinnati tandem which had led since the second day of the tournament with a 1,260.

Baum had a 643 series and Hudoba a 627. Hudboa operates his own cigarette vending machine business in Struthers, Ohio. Baum is a heating contractor.

JOE VOROS of Canton, Ohio, accounted for two changes on the giant ABC scoreboard yesterday. The 41-year-old veteran of 21 bowling seasons picked the perfect time to spill his first 700. Shooting games of 233, 247 and 221, Voros shot into second place in the singles with a 701 series. Voros also moved into second place in the all-events standings with a 1,922 aggregate, the second 1,900 plus of the tournament. He had a 639 in his team competition and rolled 582 in the doubles.

Eddie Gerzine of Milwaukee still leads the singles and all-events with 738 and 1,938 totals, respectively.

Mathews' Bat Booms As Braves Near Home

Hits 3 Homers Against Dodgers

Now that Milwaukee's County Stadium is within hailing distance, Eddie Mathews, the Braves' muscular young man with the powerful wrists, is warming up for a robust introduction to the park's reduced confines.

With opening day just a week away, Mathews didn't have a home run to his credit until yesterday. Then the 23-year-old third baseman, who led the National League with 47 homers in '53, cut loose for three, although the Braves lost the game to Brooklyn 10-8.

MATHEWS' THREE SWATS in one game (duplicated earlier this spring by Cleveland's Larry Doby and the New York Giants' Willie Mays) must have perked up the anticipation of the genial gents who own the Braves. They went to the trouble of revamping County Stadium over the winter with just such things in mind.

The stadium last season was a rambling place — the second toughest home run park in the league. This year the Braves' owners have shortened left center and right field, lopping off 15 feet.

This should be a big boost to the Braves' long-ball hitters, who number Mathews, Joe Addock, Andy Pafko, Bobby Thomson, Hank Aaron, and a few more.

AARON CONTRIBUTED a homer to the Milwaukee attack yesterday, too, but the Brooks took it in stride, ganging up on Jim Wilson for nine runs in the first two innings. Sandy Amoros hit a pair of homers for the Brooks, who evened their spring series with the Braves at 4-all. Don Newcombe, though hit fairly hard in six innings, was the winner.

Baltimore's Orioles outhomered Pittsburgh 4-3, but the Pirates won their exhibition 9-8. Toby Atwell and George Freese hit home runs in a five-run Pittsburgh first and Frank Thomas hit one with two on as the Pirates scored four in the fourth. Bobby Young, Less Moss, Vern Stephens and Gil Coan unloaded for Baltimore.

MICKEY VERNON'S two-run homer carried a five-run Washington rally in the seventh that beat Cincinnati 8-5. Reliefer Jackie Cullum was the victim after Ed Bailey, Wally Post and Ray Jablonski had clipped Chuck Stobbs for home runs and a 5-0 Cincinnati lead after three innings. Eddie Yost and Roy Sievers also homered in Washington's fifth straight victory over the Redlegs, who now have lost 10 of their last 11.

Two three-run innings gave Boston a 9-7 victory over Philadelphia.

Cleveland beat the New York Giants 9-5 as Wally Westlake and Vic Wertz homered, Westlake's, good for three runs, came off starter Marv Grissom. Larry Jansen gave up the Wertz homer with one on. Vic, just back from Detroit where his wife came through a serious operation in fine shape, had five RBI's.

CHICAGO'S WHITE SOX paired Sandy Consuegra and Mike Fornieles, who relieved in the eighth, to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2.

The Chicago Cubs made three of their four hits good for a 2-1 triumph over Beaumont of the Texas League.

Gus Zernial hit his fifth home run in as many days as Kansas City defeated Columbia, its Sally League farm club, 7-1 with Art Ditmar and Bob Trice giving up only five hits.

Detroit whipped Atlanta of the Southern Assn. 13-4 with home runs from Ferris Fain and Fred Hatfield. Steve Gromek gave up the Crackers' runs in the first four innings.

Mickey Mantle and Andy Carey led the New York Yankees in their 11-8 decision over Chattanooga of the Southern Assn. Mantle was 3-for-3 and Carey hit three triples.

Turner Defeats Gene Fullmer; Jackson Fizzles

New York, April 5 (AP)—"Yes, sir," said Gil Turner today, "I'm in the best shape in a long, long time.

Nobody will dispute the hard-punching Philadelphian, who last night handed Gene Fullmer the first defeat of his professional career at Eastern Parkway Arena.

In the process of winning a 10-round unanimous decision, Turner floored Fullmer in the sixth round, the first time Gene has been on the canvas.

"I BEAT JOE Miceli on March 7," said Turner, "then knocked off for six days and went back in training. I fight best at this weight. I had strength and speed."

He weighed in at 151 pounds. Fullmer, who had run up a skein of 29 victories, weighed 154. The bout was telecast by ABC.

OVER AT ST. NICHOLAS Arena, Tommy (Spring Breeze) Jackson, the ex-Hurricane, won a unanimous decision over Archie McBride of Trenton, N. J.

This was Jackson's fifth straight in his comeback attempt since being stopped in two heats by Nino Valdes last year. He couldn't punch or defend himself against Valdes. He still can't.

Tommy has a powder puff right that reminds one of a girl throwing a baseball. He doesn't punch with it. He slaps.

"They must have been counting the slaps, and not the punches," complained McBride after the fight. "He didn't hurt me at all and I thought I won it."

Big Fire Is Battled

Raleigh, N. C., April 5 (AP)—Firefighters, augmented by military personnel, battled today to halt a giant forest fire, largest in North Carolina history, which has destroyed more than 250,000 acres of timberland in two eastern counties. The forest fire, possibly the largest ever to occur in the South, swept past the tiny village of Ponzer yesterday but no homes were lost. The blaze was threatening another Hyde county village, Scranton. The fire broke out in the swampy area near Lake Phelps in Tyrrell county last week. No estimate of the damage was available. Meanwhile, 16 forest fires were reported yesterday in the Rocky Mount area, with one blaze near Bethel, burning over 8,000 acres.

Four Streams Set Exclusively for Fly Fishermen

Albany, April 5—It's unlikely, Conservation Department fisheries men feel, that fly-fishermen will be able to muster a majority, come April 9, when the fishing clan gathers along the thousands of miles of New York's trout waters to open the 1955 season. Nevertheless, they pointed out today, the "purists" will again this season have short stretches of four outstanding trout streams in New York set aside for their undisputed addiction to fooling trout with flies.

Continuing the pattern of previous seasons, Conservation Commissioner Louis A. Wehle has approved a department order designating as public fly fishing areas specific stretches of the Bouquet and East Branch Ausable rivers (Essex county), Kinderhook creek (Rensselaer and Columbia counties) and the Willowemoc creek (Sullivan county). In limited areas of these streams, the order provides that angling shall be restricted to the use of unweighted, single hooked, artificial dry flies; wet flies, bucktails, nymphs and streamer flies only.

Turner Defeats Gene Fullmer; Jackson Fizzles

New York, April 5 (AP)—"Yes, sir," said Gil Turner today, "I'm in the best shape in a long, long time.

Nobody will dispute the hard-punching Philadelphian, who last night handed Gene Fullmer the first defeat of his professional career at Eastern Parkway Arena.

In the process of winning a 10-round unanimous decision, Turner floored Fullmer in the sixth round, the first time Gene has been on the canvas.

"I BEAT JOE Miceli on March 7," said Turner, "then knocked off for six days and went back in training. I fight best at this weight. I had strength and speed."

He weighed in at 151 pounds. Fullmer, who had run up a skein of 29 victories, weighed 154. The bout was telecast by ABC.

OVER AT ST. NICHOLAS Arena, Tommy (Spring Breeze) Jackson, the ex-Hurricane, won a unanimous decision over Archie McBride of Trenton, N. J.

This was Jackson's fifth straight in his comeback attempt since being stopped in two heats by Nino Valdes last year. He couldn't punch or defend himself against Valdes. He still can't.

Tommy has a powder puff right that reminds one of a girl throwing a baseball. He doesn't punch with it. He slaps.

"They must have been counting the slaps, and not the punches," complained McBride after the fight. "He didn't hurt me at all and I thought I won it."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Girl Scout Rally Set for April 23

Woodstock, April 5 — Mrs. Charles King, chairman of the Woodstock Girl Scout Community Association, announced that the spring rally will be held at Camp Wendy, Wallkill, on Saturday, April 23, the program to start at 3 p. m. Girl Scouts, Brownies and their families and friends and Girl Scout leaders are invited to come to the camp in the morning and bring lunch. The Kingston troops are planning a program of games and the Woodstock troops are arranging two scavenger hunts, one for Intermediate Girl Scouts and one for Brownies.

Plans for the forthcoming annual Girl Scout dinner and meeting on April 25, at the Governor Clinton were also discussed.

On April 27, Mrs. Kenneth Martin will conduct an outdoor training session on the C. J. Rijn property. Leaders of the various troops are requesting the aid of fathers on April 16 and 17 to help clear brush in order that fires may be built for the training session. Fathers participating are requested to bring clippers on those two days between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. Also requested are donations of fire prevention equipment—five water pails, two shovels and two brooms.

Two camperships for this summer were also announced, one for Brownies and one for Intermediates, for which members of the Woodstock troops may compete. The two camperships are being donated this year by two village organizations.

Mrs. Melvin Leshen will serve as chairman of the cookie sale, from May 9 to 14, with Mrs. Donald Jackson as assistant chairman.

Girl Scouting in Woodstock will conclude for the season with a Court of Awards to be held at the Woodstock school, Friday afternoon, June 3.

Inasmuch as the reorganization of the troop committee from a community organization to a neighborhood one, will take place in the near future, the present officers of the Woodstock Association were requested to remain in office until the reorganization takes place, and consequently no election of officers was held at the spring meeting.

Rotary Is Hopeful On Clothing Drive

Woodstock, April 5—On April 1, the crusade for clothing for the Koreans was launched by the Rotary Club of Woodstock. The weapons will be bundles of clothing. The goal—to help provide clean clothing for needy families and children in devastated Korea. The need is urgent, a spokesman for the Rotary Club reports. Two million victims of Communist aggression in Korea are still refugees, and they are in desperate need of help. The Rev. Harvey I. Todd said that "not only will we help to alleviate the suffering of many needy thousands of families with their children, but we will also be teaching ourselves a valuable lesson in the importance of thinking of others."

What is collected now will provide for the needs of next winter. Most needed is warm clothing — heavy underwear, wool skirts, suits, sweaters and coats. Clothing goes to people whose first need is warmth, not style. Shoes are next in importance. Even though scuffed, America's outgrown shoes will have miles of use left in them. Here again adult sizes can be used. However high-heeled women's shoes are of no use and should not be included. Babies' clothing is in constant demand, diapers, crib blankets, night shirts, war sweaters and undershirts are especially needed.

It is important to have all clothing clean and in as good repair as possible, because these gifts will be symbols of the new hope to the many needy.

All of these articles of clothing may be left at the Woodstock Garage on any day during business hours from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., until May 15, which formally closes the crusade.

Smoke and Water Damage Home At Stone Ridge

Severe smoke and water damage was reported in the home of Edward Muller Jr., and Route 209 Stone Ridge as the result of a fire Monday morning, according to Harry Cornish, fire chief.

The fire broke out in the cellar and burned through the first floor, Chief Cornish said. A pet dog died of asphyxiation in the fire, he reported, but none of the family was at home when the blaze was discovered about 10:20 a. m.

The fire was confined to the basement and first floor through the efforts of volunteer firemen from Stone Ridge and High Falls. The latter company was summoned through Mutual Aid.

Cause of the fire has not been determined, Chief Cornish said.

Name of Trustee Omitted

In the Saturday edition of The Freeman a story announcing the opening of classes in the new addition to the West Hurley elementary school, School District No. 5, inadvertently omitted the name of one of the trustees of the school, James J. Hogan. Listed in error as a trustee was James McCarty, principal of the school and clerk of the board. The kindergarten and three classrooms were put into use yesterday morning. Augustus Schrowang was the architect and Charles Vogel of Colonial Construction Co. the general contractor.

Ideas Are Asked

Albany, April 5 (AP)—Gov. Harriman's consumer counsel yesterday asked women shoppers to pass along any ideas on how her office could serve their interests. Persia Campbell met with about 40 women representing farm organizations, women's organizations and other interested groups.

Rail Service Resumes Again

Albany, April 5 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad today operated full service over tracks that had been ripped up in a derailment Saturday.

Debris was cleared and both main line tracks were restored to service at Schodack Landing, about 15 miles south of Albany, where the combined Pacemaker and Advance Commodore Vanderbilt had jumped the rails after hitting a rock slide. A railroad spokesman said a "slow order" was in effect for about a third of a mile, delaying trains about four minutes.

WILLIAM T. KELLY, 62, of Tarrytown, the engineer, remained in critical condition at a hospital here with injuries suffered in the wreck.

A diesel unit plunged down an embankment into a Hudson river bay and more than 35 persons were injured. None of the others was in serious condition, however. Ten cars of the 14-car New York-to-Chicago train were derailed.

Fluoridation Prohibited

Pontiac, Mich., April 5 (AP)—An ordinance prohibiting fluoridation of the city's water supply approved in yesterday's election. The vote was 5,775 to 4,311. The ordinance was placed on the ballot by petition after the City Council approved treatment of the water. Fluoridation was approved by voters in only 7 out of 44 precincts.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Girl Scout Rally Set for April 23

Woodstock, April 5 — Mrs. Charles King, chairman of the Woodstock Girl Scout Community Association, announced that the spring rally will be held at Camp Wendy, Wallkill, on Saturday, April 23, the program to start at 3 p. m. Girl Scouts, Brownies and their families and friends and Girl Scout leaders are invited to come to the camp in the morning and bring lunch. The Kingston troops are planning a program of games and the Woodstock troops are arranging two scavenger hunts, one for Intermediate Girl Scouts and one for Brownies.

Plans for the forthcoming annual Girl Scout dinner and meeting on April 25, at the Governor Clinton were also discussed.

On April 27, Mrs. Kenneth Martin will conduct an outdoor training session on the C. J. Rijn property. Leaders of the various troops are requesting the aid of fathers on April 16 and 17 to help clear brush in order that fires may be built for the training session. Fathers participating are requested to bring clippers on those two days between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. Also requested are donations of fire prevention equipment—five water pails, two shovels and two brooms.

Two camperships for this summer were also announced, one for Brownies and one for Intermediates, for which members of the Woodstock troops may compete. The two camperships are being donated this year by two village organizations.

Mrs. Melvin Leshen will serve as chairman of the cookie sale, from May 9 to 14, with Mrs. Donald Jackson as assistant chairman.

Girl Scouting in Woodstock will conclude for the season with a Court of Awards to be held at the Woodstock school, Friday afternoon, June 3.

Inasmuch as the reorganization of the troop committee from a community organization to a neighborhood one, will take place in the near future, the present officers of the Woodstock Association were requested to remain in office until the reorganization takes place, and consequently no election of officers was held at the spring meeting.

Rotary Is Hopeful On Clothing Drive

Woodstock, April 5—On April 1, the crusade for clothing for the Koreans was launched by the Rotary Club of Woodstock. The weapons will be bundles of clothing. The goal—to help provide clean clothing for needy families and children in devastated Korea. The need is urgent, a spokesman for the Rotary Club reports. Two million victims of Communist aggression in Korea are still refugees, and they are in desperate need of help. The Rev. Harvey I. Todd said that "not only will we help to alleviate the suffering of many needy thousands of families with their children, but we will also be teaching ourselves a valuable lesson in the importance of thinking of others."

What is collected now will provide for the needs of next winter. Most needed is warm clothing — heavy underwear, wool skirts, suits, sweaters and coats. Clothing goes to people whose first need is warmth, not style. Shoes are next in importance. Even though scuffed, America's outgrown shoes will have miles of use left in them. Here again adult sizes can be used. However high-heeled women's shoes are of no use and should not be included. Babies' clothing is in constant demand, diapers, crib blankets, night shirts, war sweaters and undershirts are especially needed.

It is important to have all clothing clean and in as good repair as possible, because these gifts will be symbols of the new hope to the many needy.

All of these articles of clothing may be left at the Woodstock Garage on any day during business hours from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., until May 15, which formally closes the crusade.

Smoke and Water Damage Home At Stone Ridge

Severe smoke and water damage was reported in the home of Edward Muller Jr., and Route 209 Stone Ridge as the result of a fire Monday morning, according to Harry Cornish, fire chief.

The fire broke out in the cellar and burned through the first floor, Chief Cornish said. A pet dog died of asphyxiation in the fire, he reported, but none of the family was at home when the blaze was discovered about 10:20 a. m.

The fire was confined to the basement and first floor through the efforts of volunteer firemen from Stone Ridge and High Falls. The latter company was summoned through Mutual Aid.

Cause of the fire has not been determined, Chief Cornish said.

Rail Service Resumes Again

Albany, April 5 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad today operated full service over tracks that had been ripped up in a derailment Saturday.

Debris was cleared and both main line tracks were restored to service at Schodack Landing, about 15 miles south of Albany, where the combined Pacemaker and Advance Commodore Vanderbilt had jumped the rails after hitting a rock slide. A railroad spokesman said a "slow order" was in effect for about a third of a mile, delaying trains about four minutes.

WILLIAM T. KELLY, 62, of Tarrytown, the engineer, remained in critical condition at a hospital here with injuries suffered in the wreck.

A diesel unit plunged down an embankment into a Hudson river bay and more than 35 persons were injured. None of the others was in serious condition, however. Ten cars of the 14-car New York-to-Chicago train were derailed.

Promotion Stunt Tried for Girdles

New York, April 5 (AP)—Buyers in 60 cities today received boxes they were cautioned to open in closed rooms.

The boxes each contained a single women's girdle, a carrier pigeon and an order blank. The blank is to be filled out, placed in a capsule on the bird's leg, and the bird turned loose.

The promotion was arranged by a New York manufacturer of girdles, in cooperation with the Railway Express Agency, the Long Island Group for Racing Pigeons and the Greater New York Homing Pigeon Clubs.

The boxes containing the pigeons and samples are sent by air and Railway Express, with guaranteed overnight delivery to buyers. The birds are expected to fly back to New York from as far away as Atlanta and Chicago at speeds of up to 90 miles an hour.

The first consignment of pigeons was dispatched last night. Another shipment is due to go out tonight.

Hunt Is Made for Clues To One Who Provided Gun

Raiford, Fla., April 5 (AP)—A hunt was on today for clues to the person who smuggled a gun to desperado George Heroux in state prison.

The 25-year-old Heroux, using the .25 caliber Italian revolver in an apparent attempt to escape yesterday, killed J. G. Godwin, 56, the prison's assistant superintendent, and wounded two guards.

Heroux still had one bullet in the gun when he was overpowered by guards in a corridor leading to Supt. L. F. Chapman's office. He was placed in solitary confinement.

L. E. Dobbs, 54, married and father of four sons, was shot in the right shoulder.

L. L. Wainwright, 31, father of three children, was shot in the left thigh.

GODWIN HAD BEEN a prison official for more than 30 years.

State Atty. T. E. Duncan began questioning prison personnel yesterday in an attempt to find how the gun was smuggled to Heroux.

The last person to visit Heroux was his father, George, on Saturday. The father is from Providence, R. I., and is visiting at Keystone Heights near here.

Supt. L. F. Chapman, who made Raiford the first prison in the country to be surrounded by a wire fence instead of a wall, said this was the first time a member of the staff had been shot.

HEROUX WAS in a cell on the detention corridor when he called a guard to ask to go to the toilet. He suddenly showed the pistol and demanded to be taken to Chapman's office.

As they reached the last corridor, Godwin and six guards on duty saw the gun and began to close in. Heroux then started firing. In a moment he was overpowered but not before the three men had been hit.

Chapman said Heroux evidently was going to try to kidnap one of the officials and use him in an escape attempt.

Heroux was convicted of robbing the Johnson County National Bank and Trust Co., of Prairie Village, Kan., of $62,000 and the Southside Bank of Kansas City of $4,718 in 1951. He was sentenced to 25 years for these robberies.

MASSACHUSETTS officials said he also was suspected of the slaying of Trooper A. M. Savela, 33, of Fitchburg on a lonely road at Barre, Mass., Aug. 31, 1951. The killing has not been solved and officials said they planned to question Heroux again.

Heroux kidnaped two policemen in a Miami suburb in 1952 when they tried to arrest him. One swerved the car against a tree and subdued him. He was serving 25 years for this, making a total of 50.

New Computer

tor and transistor-core team open up whole new horizons in the electronic computer field. With them, the possibilities are virtually unlimited for the development of computers and data processing machines much faster and far more useful than those in existence today."

Outstanding advantages of the transistors used in the computing section of the 608 are that they are small in size, need little power to operate, are simple in construction, and durable. In the new calculator, a one-half reduction in computer-unit size and a 90% reduction in power requirements over a comparable vacuum tube model are affected by the use of the transistors. In addition to saving valuable office space, the replacement of tubes by transistors reduces heat in the same proportion as the reduction in power consumption. Current research indicates that exceptionally long operating life can be expected of transistors.

More than 3,000 transistors are used in the 608. The "power" transistor, the 150-x4, was totally developed by IBM, which also has conducted intensive research and development activity to bring transistors to the degree of perfection required by computers.

The magnetic cores that supplement the transistors in the 608 are extremely stable and will last indefinitely. Slightly larger than a pin-head, their size permits large storage capacity in a relatively small space. To perform their storage function, the tiny ferrite beads are strung together by grid wires to form a network. Information is stored in or recalled from the cores by impulses sent through selected pairs of the grid wires.

The capacity and speed of the 608 will enable it to tackle problems of greater size and complexity than those now handled by the IBM types 604 and 607 calculators. The wide range of applications include payroll preparation. Actuarial analysis, inventory accounting, stress and vibration analyses and scores of other commercial and scientific problems.

To eliminate bulky wiring, transistors in the 608 are mounted. Along with related circuitry, on about 700 printed wiring panels—each slightly larger than an ordinary post card. Each panel is "pluggable" into specially designed sockets for easy access. These printed circuits are well adapted to the fast, automatic production techniques that have been set up by IBM to increase uniformity and quality.

The machine can perform 4,500 additions a second, a computing speed two and one-half times faster than IBM's type 607 calculator. It can multiply two 9-digit numbers and come up with the 18-digit product in eleven one-thousandths of a second. It can divide and 18-digit number by a 9-digit number and produce the 9-digit quotient in just thirteen one-thousandths of a second. The calculating punch unit, used for both input and output, is designed to permit a card to be calculated and the results punched while it is passing through the machine at the rate of 155 per minute. This provides 50 per cent greater card output than is now available in a machine such as the 607.

The three-dimensional array of magnetic cores in the "memory" section of the 608 provides more than twice the storage capacity of its predecessor.

Programming — providing the 608 with operating instructions —is handled by a flexibly wired control panel similar to those found in IBM machines now in use. Up to eighty program steps form the basis of the machine's "logical" ability. The non-sequential arrangement of the steps allows the programmer to initiate or skip individual steps. At electronic speeds, by simple control panel wiring. The program steps are supplemented by electronic selectors, coincidence switches and various test impulses that provide the programmer with the tools for setting up machine logic directly on the control panel. External manual and visual controls permit the 608 operator to test complicated calculating routines before proceeding with a problem.

Republican Tries

and also is chairman of the county and city Democratic party committee.

Daley also expressed confidence in a victory. In answering Merriam, the Democratic candidate, who is the father of seven children, said: "My opponent says I would unleash the forces of evil in Chicago. But people who know me and my family know I would only do things to make Chicago a better place in which to live."

Merriam's backers said a big turnout of voters would give him a better chance of winning. But election experts figured that about 1,300,000 of the city's 1,946,477 registered voters would cast ballots. The 1951 mayoral vote was 1,270,017. Polls opened at 6 a. m. (CST) and close at 5 p. m. Showers were forecast.

A victory for Merriam for the four-year term would give Chicago its first Republican mayor since 1931 when the late William Hale Thompson ended his third term.

Also on the ticket are candidates for a city clerk and a municipal judge.

Quinn Pleads Guilty to Charge

Poughkeepsie, April 5 (AP)—Asst. Corporation Counsel Joseph Quinn Jr., 32, today pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct in city court and received a suspended sentence.

Quinn, a World War 2 veteran, was arrested early last Thursday morning at the Amrita Club, in Poughkepsie, and charged with creating a disturbance. Policemen who arrested him accused Quinn of assaulting them and kicking out the right rear window of a new police patrol car in which he was taken to headquarters.

Quinn, in pleading guilty before City Judge Bernard McCoy, extended "my apologies to all concerned."

After the court session City Manager Hayden H. Johnson said "no comment" when asked as to Quinn's future status.

Ellenville Has Woman on Board

Mrs. Arthur L. Green became the first woman ever to serve on the Ellenville village board when she was chosen Monday night to fill out Mayor Eugene Glusker's unexpired term.

Selection of Mrs. Green, mother of four children and an active member of the Democratic party, was made at the board's organizational meeting.

Glusker, a member of the board, was chosen at the village elections in March as mayor of the village succeedings Frank Muller. His term as trustee would have expired in March, 1956.

The Democrats now hold all four seats on the village board as well as the mayoralty position. Other board members include Cyrus DePuy and William Graham, elected in March for two-year terms, and Harry M. Thayer, whose term will expire next year.

A charge of reckless driving against Lemuel Ploss, 41, of Cottekill, who was arrested following a car-taxi mishap on Broadway near St. Mary's Church on Sunday, was withdrawn.

A POLICE REPORT at 1:50 a. m. Sunday said Ploss was headed south on Broadway and a cab of the Roosa Taxi Co., 309 Fair street, operated by Clarence Freer, 56, of 156 Bruyn avenue, was headed north on Broadway.

The case of Edward F. VanLoan of Port Ewen, who was arrested early Monday morning on a charge of reckless driving after a two-car collision at Broadway and Cedar street, was adjourned by Judge Mino until tomorrow morning to permit the defendant to obtain counsel.

A police report at 2:40 a. m. Monday said VanLoan was headed north on Broadway and the sedan of Arnold G. Stevens of Patchogue, L. I., headed south on Broadway, was stopped and waiting for a traffic light to change at Cedar street.

Directors to Meet On Continuing Red Cross Drive

An important meeting of the board of directors of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, will be held this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the chapter house.

While the month of March had been designated as Red Cross month for the annual Red Cross campaign for members and funds, many workers have not completed their canvass. The canvass will be continued until all workers have completed their work. In the event a worker has not been able to contact a home, contributions may be made to the ward or town chairman or send directly to the Chapter House, Clinton avenue, Kingston, and the contribution will be credited to the proper ward or town.

AS OF MARCH 31, the national quota as reported to national headquarters, had reached 66.56 per cent of the goal with 79 chapters having "gone over the top."

L. D. MacIntyre, national director of fund raising, states that while March 1 to March 31 is the official designated period of the American Red Cross drive annually, it is also true that chapters that still have not reached their goal will continue their endeavors.

In commenting on the need for making the 1955 goal, MacIntyre said, "many major disaster relief operations have caused Red Cross to commit over a million dollars in excess of its disaster budget of $4,000,000 for current fiscal year, obliging the organization to dip into its disaster revolving fund, and the normally heaviest disaster months of the year, Apr. 1, May and June, are still ahead."

Promotion Stunt Tried for Girdles

New York, April 5 (AP)—Buyers in 60 cities today received boxes they were cautioned to open in closed rooms.

The boxes each contained a single women's girdle, a carrier pigeon and an order blank. The blank is to be filled out, placed in a capsule on the bird's leg, and the bird turned loose.

The promotion was arranged by a New York manufacturer of girdles, in cooperation with the Railway Express Agency, the Long Island Group for Racing Pigeons and the Greater New York Homing Pigeon Clubs.

The boxes containing the pigeons and samples are sent by air and Railway Express, with guaranteed overnight delivery to buyers. The birds are expected to fly back to New York from as far away as Atlanta and Chicago at speeds of up to 90 miles an hour.

The first consignment of pigeons was dispatched last night. Another shipment is due to go out tonight.

New York, April 5 (AP)—Leaders of New York's fashion and garment industry plan to build a six-million-dollar fashion center to strengthen the city's garment industry. Joseph Love, a manufacturer of children's clothing and chairman of the project, said yesterday the 10-story building will have facilities for showing men's, women's and children's clothing and accessories. The building is to be in midtown Manhattan but no site has yet been chosen.

Hunt Is Made for Clues To One Who Provided Gun

Raiford, Fla., April 5 (AP)—A hunt was on today for clues to the person who smuggled a gun to desperado George Heroux in state prison.

The 25-year-old Heroux, using the .25 caliber Italian revolver in an apparent attempt to escape yesterday, killed J. G. Godwin, 56, the prison's assistant superintendent, and wounded two guards.

Heroux still had one bullet in the gun when he was overpowered by guards in a corridor leading to Supt. L. F. Chapman's office. He was placed in solitary confinement.

L. E. Dobbs, 54, married and father of four sons, was shot in the right shoulder.

L. L. Wainwright, 31, father of three children, was shot in the left thigh.

GODWIN HAD BEEN a prison official for more than 30 years.

State Atty. T. E. Duncan began questioning prison personnel yesterday in an attempt to find how the gun was smuggled to Heroux.

The last person to visit Heroux was his father, George, on Saturday. The father is from Providence, R. I., and is visiting at Keystone Heights near here.

Supt. L. F. Chapman, who made Raiford the first prison in the country to be surrounded by a wire fence instead of a wall, said this was the first time a member of the staff had been shot.

HEROUX WAS in a cell on the detention corridor when he called a guard to ask to go to the toilet. He suddenly showed the pistol and demanded to be taken to Chapman's office.

As they reached the last corridor, Godwin and six guards on duty saw the gun and began to close in. Heroux then started firing. In a moment he was overpowered but not before the three men had been hit.

Chapman said Heroux evidently was going to try to kidnap one of the officials and use him in an escape attempt.

Heroux was convicted of robbing the Johnson County National Bank and Trust Co., of Prairie Village, Kan., of $62,000 and the Southside Bank of Kansas City of $4,718 in 1951. He was sentenced to 25 years for these robberies.

MASSACHUSETTS officials said he also was suspected of the slaying of Trooper A. M. Savela, 33, of Fitchburg on a lonely road at Barre, Mass., Aug. 31, 1951. The killing has not been solved and officials said they planned to question Heroux again.

Heroux kidnaped two policemen in a Miami suburb in 1952 when they tried to arrest him. One swerved the car against a tree and subdued him. He was serving 25 years for this, making a total of 50.

New Computer

tor and transistor-core team open up whole new horizons in the electronic computer field. With them, the possibilities are virtually unlimited for the development of computers and data processing machines much faster and far more useful than those in existence today."

Outstanding advantages of the transistors used in the computing section of the 608 are that they are small in size, need little power to operate, are simple in construction, and durable. In the new calculator, a one-half reduction in computer-unit size and a 90% reduction in power requirements over a comparable vacuum tube model are affected by the use of the transistors. In addition to saving valuable office space, the replacement of tubes by transistors reduces heat in the same proportion as the reduction in power consumption. Current research indicates that exceptionally long operating life can be expected of transistors.

More than 3,000 transistors are used in the 608. The "power" transistor, the 150-x4, was totally developed by IBM, which also has conducted intensive research and development activity to bring transistors to the degree of perfection required by computers.

The magnetic cores that supplement the transistors in the 608 are extremely stable and will last indefinitely. Slightly larger than a pin-head, their size permits large storage capacity in a relatively small space. To perform their storage function, the tiny ferrite beads are strung together by grid wires to form a network. Information is stored in or recalled from the cores by impulses sent through selected pairs of the grid wires.

The capacity and speed of the 608 will enable it to tackle problems of greater size and complexity than those now handled by the IBM types 604 and 607 calculators. The wide range of applications include payroll preparation. Actuarial analysis, inventory accounting, stress and vibration analyses and scores of other commercial and scientific problems.

To eliminate bulky wiring, transistors in the 608 are mounted. Along with related circuitry, on about 700 printed wiring panels—each slightly larger than an ordinary post card. Each panel is "pluggable" into specially designed sockets for easy access. These printed circuits are well adapted to the fast, automatic production techniques that have been set up by IBM to increase uniformity and quality.

The machine can perform 4,500 additions a second, a computing speed two and one-half times faster than IBM's type 607 calculator. It can multiply two 9-digit numbers and come up with the 18-digit product in eleven one-thousandths of a second. It can divide and 18-digit number by a 9-digit number and produce the 9-digit quotient in just thirteen one-thousandths of a second. The calculating punch unit, used for both input and output, is designed to permit a card to be calculated and the results punched while it is passing through the machine at the rate of 155 per minute. This provides 50 per cent greater card output than is now available in a machine such as the 607.

The three-dimensional array of magnetic cores in the "memory" section of the 608 provides more than twice the storage capacity of its predecessor.

Programming — providing the 608 with operating instructions —is handled by a flexibly wired control panel similar to those found in IBM machines now in use. Up to eighty program steps form the basis of the machine's "logical" ability. The non-sequential arrangement of the steps allows the programmer to initiate or skip individual steps. At electronic speeds, by simple control panel wiring. The program steps are supplemented by electronic selectors, coincidence switches and various test impulses that provide the programmer with the tools for setting up machine logic directly on the control panel. External manual and visual controls permit the 608 operator to test complicated calculating routines before proceeding with a problem.

Republican Tries

and also is chairman of the county and city Democratic party committee.

Daley also expressed confidence in a victory. In answering Merriam, the Democratic candidate, who is the father of seven children, said: "My opponent says I would unleash the forces of evil in Chicago. But people who know me and my family know I would only do things to make Chicago a better place in which to live."

Merriam's backers said a big turnout of voters would give him a better chance of winning. But election experts figured that about 1,300,000 of the city's 1,946,477 registered voters would cast ballots. The 1951 mayoral vote was 1,270,017. Polls opened at 6 a. m. (CST) and close at 5 p. m. Showers were forecast.

A victory for Merriam for the four-year term would give Chicago its first Republican mayor since 1931 when the late William Hale Thompson ended his third term.

Also on the ticket are candidates for a city clerk and a municipal judge.

Quinn Pleads Guilty to Charge

Poughkeepsie, April 5 (AP)—Asst. Corporation Counsel Joseph Quinn Jr., 32, today pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct in city court and received a suspended sentence.

Quinn, a World War 2 veteran, was arrested early last Thursday morning at the Amrita Club, in Poughkepsie, and charged with creating a disturbance. Policemen who arrested him accused Quinn of assaulting them and kicking out the right rear window of a new police patrol car in which he was taken to headquarters.

Quinn, in pleading guilty before City Judge Bernard McCoy, extended "my apologies to all concerned."

After the court session City Manager Hayden H. Johnson said "no comment" when asked as to Quinn's future status.

Ellenville Has Woman on Board

Mrs. Arthur L. Green became the first woman ever to serve on the Ellenville village board when she was chosen Monday night to fill out Mayor Eugene Glusker's unexpired term.

Selection of Mrs. Green, mother of four children and an active member of the Democratic party, was made at the board's organizational meeting.

Glusker, a member of the board, was chosen at the village elections in March as mayor of the village succeedings Frank Muller. His term as trustee would have expired in March, 1956.

The Democrats now hold all four seats on the village board as well as the mayoralty position. Other board members include Cyrus DePuy and William Graham, elected in March for two-year terms, and Harry M. Thayer, whose term will expire next year.

A charge of reckless driving against Lemuel Ploss, 41, of Cottekill, who was arrested following a car-taxi mishap on Broadway near St. Mary's Church on Sunday, was withdrawn.

A POLICE REPORT at 1:50 a. m. Sunday said Ploss was headed south on Broadway and a cab of the Roosa Taxi Co., 309 Fair street, operated by Clarence Freer, 56, of 156 Bruyn avenue, was headed north on Broadway.

The case of Edward F. VanLoan of Port Ewen, who was arrested early Monday morning on a charge of reckless driving after a two-car collision at Broadway and Cedar street, was adjourned by Judge Mino until tomorrow morning to permit the defendant to obtain counsel.

A police report at 2:40 a. m. Monday said VanLoan was headed north on Broadway and the sedan of Arnold G. Stevens of Patchogue, L. I., headed south on Broadway, was stopped and waiting for a traffic light to change at Cedar street.

Directors to Meet On Continuing Red Cross Drive

An important meeting of the board of directors of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, will be held this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the chapter house.

While the month of March had been designated as Red Cross month for the annual Red Cross campaign for members and funds, many workers have not completed their canvass. The canvass will be continued until all workers have completed their work. In the event a worker has not been able to contact a home, contributions may be made to the ward or town chairman or send directly to the Chapter House, Clinton avenue, Kingston, and the contribution will be credited to the proper ward or town.

AS OF MARCH 31, the national quota as reported to national headquarters, had reached 66.56 per cent of the goal with 79 chapters having "gone over the top."

L. D. MacIntyre, national director of fund raising, states that while March 1 to March 31 is the official designated period of the American Red Cross drive annually, it is also true that chapters that still have not reached their goal will continue their endeavors.

In commenting on the need for making the 1955 goal, MacIntyre said, "many major disaster relief operations have caused Red Cross to commit over a million dollars in excess of its disaster budget of $4,000,000 for current fiscal year, obliging the organization to dip into its disaster revolving fund, and the normally heaviest disaster months of the year, Apr. 1, May and June, are still ahead."
